Fifth Russian-Built Jet Downed In Four Days As Korea Fight Continues

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA (UP)—U.S. warplanes shot down their fifth Russian-built jet in four days over North Korea today and soldiers died in fierce ground battles while 10 men worked for a cease-fire at a conference table in Kaesong.

A 829 Superfort gunner, Sgt. Gus V. Opler of Opportunity, Wash., destroyed the enemy Mig-15 when a flight of jets struck vainly against bombers blasting the Sinsanju Airport.

In four days of futile challenges against Allied air might, the Communists have had five jets shot down and four damaged. No allied losses or damage have been reported.

Sharp local battles flared along the East-Central and the Eastern fronts. Chinese Communist and North Korean troops launched several probing attacks and poured heavy mortar and artillery fire into United Nations positions. All attacks were repulsed.

South of Kumsong, stubborn enemy troops reeled back from one assault, regrouped and came back again. But they were thrown into retreat again.

U.N. Patrols stabbed north of Yonchon, northeast of the conference site at Kaesong, and ran into heavy fire from entrenched Communists who drove them back.

The only sector where there was no fighting was around Kaesong. Allied and Chinese soldiers even met face to face there without fighting. Both sides retired from the meeting without incident.

CO-INSURANCE NO WORRY TO HOSPITAL ARRIVALS

There were new arrivals at Royal Jubilee Hospital today and the parents aren't worrying about fees of co-insurance. Nurse Vera H. Ross spotted the nest of young swallows in a vent-pipe high up on the west wall of Maternity Pavilion. Lively triplets were seen peeping from the doorway of their circular dwelling, where they awaited the frequent return of their fork-tailed parents with food caught on-the-wing.

The mother, slightly female that she is, appeared worried not one bit about salt-free or fat-free diet. Nor, related Nurse Ross, did she seem to take a tray duly marked: "Mrs. Swallow Nest 1, Aviary Ward."

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Two American tourists were killed Monday in the overturning of a sightseeing bus returning to Jasper Park Lodge from the Columbia Icefield in the Canadian Rockies.

Canadian National Railways, operators of the lodge, said one other person suffered severe injuries, four received less serious injuries and 21 were treated for minor hurts.

The dead: Mrs. G. L. Andrie, Lakewood, Ohio, and Isabel Ryan, Burbank, Calif.

The bus passengers who suffered minor injuries were to return to the Jasper Hospital today for further examination. Their names were not immediately available.

Rainmaker Bids To Shatter Long Victoria Drought

Sask. Man Has 'New Machine'

A prairie rainmaker came forward today with an offer to break Victoria's record-shattering dry spell which has persisted with a few breaks since April and taken a heavy toll of berry and pasture crops on south Vancouver Island.

He is Donald S. Johnston, 1667 Athol Street, Regina, Sask., who claims to have invented a rain-making machine which can bring a deluge of water to Victoria.

"The operation costs of the machine are nil," he stated in a letter to the Victoria Daily Times. "The costs are mainly traveling expenses."

As to his credentials, Johnston stated: "I can make it rain and I have been doing just this for 11 years in Saskatchewan and Alberta."

He claims that in June he operated his rain-making machine in Medicine Hat, Redcliff, Alberta, and in Regina and Swift Current, Sask.

"Besides breaking other records in southern Alberta last month I also set up a new record for rainfall for one day, at Medicine Hat on June 24—amounting to 2.33 inches to the day," he states.

He promised that if he is invited to Victoria the results will be immediate "within a few hours after my arrival at the place where rain is needed."

Police Find Missing Boy; Advise Tags

City police today reported another case where a missing unidentified child would have been returned to his home had his name and address been given on his clothing, as previously suggested by authorities and publicized by the Daily Times.

Mrs. A. Tribe, 2224 Quadra Street, telephoned the police station late Monday to report she had a lost child at her home. Constable Thomas Smith picked up the boy, who could not remember where he lived.

For nearly four hours the lad was kept in the charge office. At 7:10 p.m. an anxious father who had been frantically searching for his son phoned the station and learned the boy was at the station.

Police chiefs of Greater Victoria are in agreement that if names and addresses were given on clothing missing children could be quickly returned home.

Victoria's Police Chief John Blackstock advises parents to telephone the police station immediately to get assistance in locating missing children.

U.K. Transport Operations Prove Costly

LONDON (AP)—The British Transport Commission dropped £14,200,000 running the state-owned railways, docks, long-distance trucking lines and barge canals in 1950. It expects to go further into the red this year.

Since the Labor Government went into the transport business three years ago it has lost a total of £39,600,000, the commission's annual report disclosed tonight.

The report said the first six months of this year "will necessarily show heavy losses" because of delays in putting into effect recently won rate increases.

The commission claimed that increases in wages and prices were largely responsible for the deficit.

52,000 Crowd Sees All-Star Baseball Game

BRIGGS STADIUM, Detroit (Special)—Big names of the American and National League battled here today in major league baseball's colorful 18th all-star game. A capacity crowd of 52,000 was on hand. The day was warm, muggy and bright.

The American League had won 12 of the past all-star games and the National League five. The Nationals won last year, 4 to 3, in 14 innings.

National Leaguers jumped into a one-run lead in the first inning on a two-base smash by Ritchie Ashburn, combined with an error by second baseman Nelson Fox.

Nationals picked up three more runs in the top of the fourth on home runs by Stan Musial and Bob Elliott and Gil Hodges' single.

Vic Wertz hit a home run for the American League in the bottom of the fourth to leave the score 4 to 2 for the Nationals after four innings.

Canada Takes Part In London Anti-Spy Talks

LONDON (Reuters)—Envoys of the U.S., Canada and Britain are meeting here to discuss anti-spy measures to safeguard atomic secrets, the Foreign Office announced today.

The meetings began Monday and are a continuation of last June's conferences in Washington.

There will be no public releases on what the experts decide but the talks are being held against the background of several "leaks" of critical information to Russia by men in Britain and the U.S.

Discussing security in London today were K. Glennan, of the U.S.; N. W. Perrin, deputy controller of atomic energy for Britain, and C. J. Mackenzie, chairman of Canada's atomic energy control board.

Freighters Making Port After Crash

HALIFAX (CP)—The freighters Bulkier and Zebulka collided off Cape Breton Island's southeast coast today but both vessels reported they will be able to make Sydney, 50 miles away.

The 2,399-ton Bulkier, a Montreal-owned cement carrier, and the Zebulka, a refrigerated boat owned in St. John's, Nfld., radioed they are taking water in the forward holds but are headed for port under their own power.

Beef Remaining At Top Prices

Meat prices continued high today, with beef ranging from 90 cents to $1.30 per pound, a local butcher said, and show no signs of easing.

"A suggestion made by a wholesaler last week that prices were being sold wholesale at 60% easing meant that whereas meat cents, every now and then you can get some for 59% cents," he said.

Soften Threat Of Withdrawal In Iran Crisis

London Orders Policy Change

TEHRAN, Iran (CP)—A sharp switch in British tactics in the Iranian oil dispute became increasingly clear today. There's a surprising move to soft-pedal previous threats to withdraw all British technicians from Iran.

A new policy of trying to hang on as long as possible—in the face of nationalization of holdings of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—is replacing the tough talk of only a week ago that the big refinery at Abadan and the surrounding South Iranian oil fields would be shut down.

There was no indication that Premier Mohammed Mossadeq would change his "no compromise" determination to seize control of the billion-dollar company's Iranian installations.

But a government spokesman said the Premier is giving careful consideration to President Truman's offer Monday to send his personal representative, W. Averell Harriman, to Iran to help find a settlement.

Mossadeq told U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady that Truman's latest mediation attempt came "a little late."

The policy switch apparently was dictated from London, where the Labor Government has been under fire from the Conservatives for talking of giving in to the Iranians.

Meanwhile, the troubled Abadan area was ordered under a midnight-to-dawn curfew starting Wednesday. Brig. Gen. Azizallah Kamal, military governor in the area, also ordered shipping traffic on the broad estuary of the Shatt El Arab River stopped during the curfew hours.

No reason was given for the orders.

The sudden moves came after Iran had notified the United Nations she was withdrawing her recognition of the world court at The Hague.

The court last week recommended that Iran shelve her nationalization plans for the British-owned company and join with Britain in forming a board to supervise the industry until a final settlement of the main issue is achieved.

Locate Bodies, Wreckage In Alaska Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, (UP)—The crew of a 10th Rescue Squadron helicopter today found the charred bodies of two men in the smoldering wreckage of a light plane that crashed apparently after taking off from tundra 35 miles northwest of here.

Although positive identification was impossible, the Civil Aeronautics Administration believed the victims were pilot Dale Mienner, about 26, and Homer Moseley, about 24, both of Anchorage. The two men were to have returned Sunday from a two-day fishing trip to Alexander Creek near Big Sulistna River where the wreckage was found. They were flying a Piper Super Cub owned by Mienner.

Aerial observers said the plane apparently struck a clump of trees shortly after taking off from a small mining strip on the south side of Mt. Susitna. The wings were crumpled, the fuselage crumpled like an accordion and flames from the burning plane set fire to the muskeg for a radius of several hundred feet. The bodies were brought here.

ABBOTSFORD (CP)—Some amateur spying here Monday threw Washington and Ottawa into a small tizzy.

Allies Warn Reds Shooting Continues Until Agreement

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Cease-fire representatives today made progress toward an agenda to discuss an armistice, United Nations representatives said tonight.

Discussions will be resumed at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Communist-occupied Kaesong.

A communique issued by U.N. commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said the two opening sessions Tuesday were held in "an open and formal atmosphere."

(Reuters news agency quoted Maj. Gen. Lawrence C. Craigie, vice-commander of the Far East air forces, as saying the talks were "very satisfactory.")

Vice-Admiral Charles Turner Joy, leader of the United Nations negotiators, opened the talks this morning with a warning to the Communists that the shooting will go on until an armistice is firmly agreed.

Discuss Only Military Matters

At the outset of the talks Joy announced discussions would be restricted to military matters in Korea. He said the Allies would not talk about anything else—no politics, no economics, no military affairs elsewhere.

Allied war correspondents were not permitted in Kaesong. They will not be allowed to go Wednesday, either, as planned earlier.

Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, chief of information, announced that plans to send 16 correspondents to Kaesong Wednesday were cancelled because Ridgway "will do nothing to jeopardize the success of the conference."

He said newspaper men would be sent to Kaesong "after the conference is on the track and there is assurance it will stay on the track."

The report on Tuesday's sessions was given to the press by an army officer who had been at the four-hour Kaesong meetings.

He said the Communists had designated a "United Nations House" in the war-ravaged city for the use of U.N. delegates.

The Allies returned Tuesday night by helicopter to their "peace camp" at Munsan without comment.

When they arrived in Kaesong in the morning the briefing officer said, the U.N. officers were met by American jeeps which preceded them there.

Helicopter pilots reported the delegation was met by 15 jeep loads of Chinese, including some bearing side arms. They said armed Chinese stood guard around the field where the helicopters were parked throughout the day.

The briefing officer said the American jeeps carried the U.N.'s two admirals and three generals to U.N. House. They travelled under armed Communist escort.

Want Withdrawal Of Troops

As the briefing officer was making his report, the North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang said that withdrawal of all foreign troops was one of the conditions of peaceful settlement of the Korean war.

The Red radio said eventual solution of the Korean problem should be left to the Korean people themselves.

However, the Kaesong talks, as the U.N. viewpoint was outlined by Joy, will be restricted entirely to military matters.

In his opening statement, he called on the five Red generals to show good faith in the negotiations and pledged the U.N. delegation would do the same. This, the admiral said, would generate an "atmosphere of confidence."

"In such an atmosphere," he said, "there is every reason to hope for success."

And he set strict limits to the subjects of discussion. Joy said the Allies want a stable peace but

Labor Trouble Idles 16,700 Auto Workers

DETROIT (UP)—Labor disputes idled 16,700 automobile workers in Detroit today.

Five hundred employees on the motor lane at Plymouth walked off their jobs to protest the discharge of one worker "for failing to do the work assigned him." Plymouth was forced to send home 5,000 production workers when the motor line halted.

Hudson Motor Car Company, for the 21st consecutive working day, sent home its 10,000 auto workers in a continuing dispute over output rates.

Twelve hundred final assembly workers at the DeSoto Wyoming plant were sent home because of a shortage of bodies caused by a labor dispute at the DeSoto Warren plant.

Proclamation By Canada Ending War

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada today ended her formal state of war with Germany. The state of war, which began in September of 1939, was ended with the publication of a royal proclamation in the official Canada gazette.

This country thus followed Britain, Australia and New Zealand, all of which formally ended the war yesterday.

The action has no effect on war claims and other reparations which will be decided later. It means only that a state of war no longer exists and that German nationalists no longer will be regarded as enemy aliens.

Forest Closure May Be Imposed Again In B.C.

Continued dry weather over the southwest section of British Columbia during the next few days will bring about reimposition of restricted industrial and general travel closure over the Vancouver Forest District. It was learned from officials of the B.C. Forest Service today.

Growing concerned about higher temperatures, foresters say they will have no other alternative but to again close the forests if there is no change in weather before the end of the week.

A restricted industrial closure, which allowed logging firms to operate only during the early morning, was in effect from June 25 to July 6, and a general closure was in force throughout the district from June 30 to July 6. Rain and generally lower temperatures over the region allowed the orders to be lifted.

Life's Darkest Moment : : : : : BY H. T. WEBSTER

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SPEAKER IS STERN

LONDON—By good fortune, we were in the House of Commons when the debate on the tense situation arising out of the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis in Persia took place. Negotiations between the company's representatives and the Persian government had just come to an abortive end, and the resultant tension was reflected in the House.

Mr. Anthony Eden opened the debate with a demand for a firm stand, declaring that evacuation would be a sign of weakness. He was followed by Capt. R. J. Gunter, Socialist M.P. for Doncaster, who made such an able speech along the same line that he was frequently interrupted by loud and approving "Heard heard" from the opposition benches. And when he sat down he was "cheered" for fully a minute by the Tories—an astonishing ovation for a hitherto obscure Member of the Government side.

THREW A PENNY

BUT IT WAS when Mr. Herbert Morrison, Foreign Secretary, rose to reply to critics that pandemonium ensued. Not only was he interrupted by angry denunciations from the Opposition benches, but at one stage an unprecedented thing happened.

A coin—I couldn't see what it was at the time, but learned afterwards that it was a penny—was thrown from the Opposition side. It bounced on the table between the Government and Opposition leaders and hit the Government dispatch box. Members on both sides looked aghast. The Speaker was immediately on his feet.

SUSPENDED FOR SITTING

MAJOR LEGGE-BOURKE, M.P. for the Isle of Ely, who served with the Desert Rats in Libya, rose to his feet at the same time. When asked by the Speaker if he were the culprit, the Conservative member replied: "What I did was to throw a penny at the Rt. Hon. gentleman and suggest that he put on another record."

To which the Speaker retorted: "It is quite out of order and I will now direct the gallant and honorable member, because of that act, to leave this House." Whereupon the culprit bowed, his face pale and set, walked to the bar of the House, bowed again, and left. He was suspended for the remainder of the sitting.

RULING CHALLENGED

EARLIER in the sitting, before the debate on Persia opened, I also listened with great interest to a debate on a motion regarding the judgment of the deputy Speaker and chairman of ways and means, Major Milner, in refusing to call Tory amendments relating to the petrol (gas) tax during the budget debate.

Mr. Churchill, Mr. Chuter Ede, Earl Winterton and others took part in the discussion which at times grew acrimonious. But after long wrangling, the motion—which was tantamount to one of censure of the deputy Speaker—was defeated. Incidentally, the particular procedure under which the contested decision was made has no particular counterpart in Canadian parliamentary procedure.

Huge Deficit Seen In U.S. Spending

Over Billion Dollar Lag Even If Truman Tax Boosts Granted

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder has predicted a federal deficit of $1,200,000,000 for this fiscal year even if Congress approves all the tax increases requested by President Truman, it was learned today.

Snyder also has held the door open for administration approval of deficit spending next year. He is hostile to a federal sales tax, which is drawing growing support from business spokesmen.

Snyder's views were contained in a statement submitted to the Senate Finance Committee in response to questions from Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D. Va.

While he has urged a $10,700,000,000 pay-as-you-go tax program, Snyder's forecast of a deficit this year was based on the lag in collections which would hold the tax yield below that figure in the first year.

The $1,200,000,000 deficit prediction also assumed that the administration forecast of $68,400,000,000 for government spending in this fiscal year would not be reduced by Congressional cuts in appropriation bills. However, cuts appeared to be in prospect.

Snyder estimated a $9,900,000,000 deficit for the current fiscal year if present tax rates continued in force and a $5,500,000,000 under the House-approved tax bill to raise $7,200,000,000 in a full year of operation.

There is almost no chance that Congress will approve a tax increase of the size asked by the administration and little chance that the Senate will be willing to go as far as the House.

Snyder's hint of possible approval of deficit spending next year came in response to a query about how much of the national income can be taken in taxes.

Heavy Toll As Midwest Flood Waters Recede

By UNITED PRESS

Flood waters receded across the battered Midwest today, leaving a heavy toll in crop and property damage and human lives.

The major streams were falling in Missouri and Kansas, giving farmers hope that the long and costly flood siege is over.

The Missouri River, which has already caused an estimated $5,000,000 damage, was cresting again but was not expected to hit earlier levels.

However, a 4.15 rainfall at Malden, Mo., raised fears of a new flood threat in southeast Missouri.

Suggest Changes In Proposed Zoning Law

Minor changes in the city's newly proposed zoning by-law have already been suggested by department heads at City Hall, it was learned today.

They will meet to discuss the by-law again July 16 and 19. No reports as to the changes have been released by the Town Planning Commission.

The suggested changes must go to the commission who will study them on grounds of validity in connection with town planning principles. The changes may either be accepted or rejected.

The by-law will then go to council for ratification. While the commission is holding frequent meetings and doing all it can to expedite the by-law, it is not expected to reach council for some weeks yet.

Completed at the end of May by J. H. Doughty-Davies, provincial government planning authority who was on loan to the city from the government, the by-law contains several references for provision of increased off-street parking.

All department heads are studying the by-law with a view to avoiding any conflict in departments.

"Any changes proposed are to correlate rulings and see that they all dovetail," said Mrs. Elsie Shepherd, secretary to the commission.

The treaty revision reflects the settlement of differences between the U.S. and Britain worked out by Ambassador John Foster Dulles, and rules out reparations as such on grounds Japan does not have the capacity to pay. The treaty, however, requires Japan to negotiate possible compensation for the Philippines and other occupied countries by making available Japanese industrial skills and services.

RETAIN BASES
The treaty will clear the way for the projected separate pact for which the U.S. plans to retain troops in Japan and bases nearby, with Japanese consent.

DRAFT NEW TREATY FOR JAPAN PEACE

U.S. Expects Allies To Accept Pact Containing No Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Restoration of Japanese independence without formal restrictions on its military, political and economic development is provided by the latest and nearly-final draft of a peace treaty.

The United States has submitted to the major wartime Pacific allies the 5,500-word revised draft of a proposed "peace of reconciliation" expected to be signed in two months with few changes.

The State Department is circulating the proposed treaty in the expectation that it will be accepted by the other governments—except Russia—for signing with only minor alterations. The U.S. has proposed that a peace conference be held at San Francisco Sept. 4 to 8.

Russia would be deprived of a veto which Moscow has been demanding in vainly urging a Pacific treaty drafted by the big powers alone.

Seek To Revoke Bail For 17 'Second String' Reds

NEW YORK (UP)—U.S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol sought today to revoke $15,000 bail furnished by the Civil Rights Congress for 17 indicted "second string" Communist leaders.

Saypol said he also would take legal action to restrain the left-wing Congress, listed by the Department of Justice as a Communist-front organization, from future ballmaking activity.

He announced his plans Monday night after Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan sentenced attorney Daniel Hammett, chairman of the C.R.C. ball committee, and W. Alpheus Hutton, a trustee, to six months in jail for contempt of court for refusing to tell who put up $80,000 bail for four missing convict Communist leaders.

Hammett and Hutton spent the night in the Federal House of Detention but their attorneys said they would seek their release on bail today pending appeal.

The Civil Rights Congress was told its money was no good last Friday when millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, secretary of the bail fund, was jailed for the week-end on contempt charges.

Appellate Judge Thomas W. Swan of New Haven, Conn., told Field, who had refused to name the bailmakers or answer other questions by Ryan, that he would have to go to another

1. RESOLVED that each of the 267,630, unissued ordinary shares of the capital stock of this Company without nominal or par value be subdivided, reclassified and changed into 3 ordinary shares without nominal or par value so that the number of such shares be increased from 267,630 to 802,890.

2. RESOLVED that each of the 1,344,695 issued ordinary shares of the capital stock of the Company without nominal or par value be subdivided, reclassified and changed into 3 ordinary shares without nominal or par value so that the number of such shares be increased from 1,344,695 to 4,034,085.

3. RESOLVED that the maximum price or consideration at or for which the unissued shares without nominal or par value may be sold by the Company be $1.833 with power to the Directors of the Company at any time to increase such price.

4. RESOLVED that the purpose of giving effect to the foregoing resolutions, the Memorandum of Association, all of which shall take effect concurrently with the amendment of the Memorandum of Association as herein provided, the Memorandum of Association of the Company be amended on the 1st day of October, 1951, by striking out paragraphs 5 and 6 thereof, and substituting therefor the following:

"5. The Company is authorized to issue 4,034,085 shares without nominal or par value and the capital of the Company shall, with respect to those shares, be at least equal to the aggregate amount paid to the Company on or for such of those shares as are issued, together with such amounts as may from time to time be added by ordinary resolution to such capital."

"6. The maximum price or consideration at or for which the shares without nominal or par value may be sold by the Company be $1.833 with power to the Directors of the Company at any time by resolution to increase such price."

5. RESOLVED that upon the amendments of the Memorandum of Association above referred to becoming effective as provided in the next preceding resolution, the Directors and proper officers of the Company be and they are hereby authorized and directed to do all things that may be necessary to bring about the exchange by all shareholders and share warrant holders of the share certificate(s) or share warrant(s) and coupon(s) now held by them for new share certificate(s) or share warrant(s), and coupon(s), and that as from the effective date above referred to, all holders of share certificates and share warrants and coupons shall be entitled on surrender of their respective share certificates, share warrants and coupons to new share certificates, share warrants and coupons, evidencing the subdivision, reclassification and change of each share so held into 3 shares as provided for in the above mentioned resolutions.

6. RESOLVED that Article 16 of the Articles of Association of the Company be amended by striking therefrom the second sentence thereof reading as follows:

"Every certificate of shares shall specify the denoting number of the shares in respect of which it is issued and the amount paid up thereon."

7. RESOLVED that Article 44 of the Articles of Association of the Company reading as follows:

"56. # 1,500 Workers At Hollinger Mines On Strike

Dues Check-Off Causes Trouble

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP).—Some 1,500 miners and surface workers of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd., the largest gold mine in North America, were on strike today for the first time in 39 years.

The strikers, members of Local 4305, United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), at a meeting last night in a union headquarters called "Harmony Hall," rejected a company offer for a two-cent-an-hour general wage raise plus an eight-cent average increase based on a job evaluation scheme.

The union is demanding a check-off of union dues and a wage increase of 13 cents an hour, as recommended in a conciliation board report handed down last Thursday. The company refused to grant the check-off, a union statement said.

The strike climaxed negotiations begun last October, the lack of agreement between company and union leading to an Ontario Labor Board conciliation hearing June 1.

Patton Told To Report On Smoke Edict

Trouble for industrialists creating a smoke nuisance was forecast late Monday at a meeting of fire wardens, when A. J. Patton, city solicitor, was given copies of the Toronto and Vancouver anti-smoke by-laws, and instructed to report on a possible enforceable by-law for Victoria.

"If the offenders don't start to play ball there is no doubt that we will have to get a strong by-law," Ald. Frank Mulliner stated.

The city may also hire a smoke inspector to check on the city's north end smoke situation, and enforce any stronger by-law.

When Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle pointed out that Vancouver's smoke inspectors are engineers, Ald. Mulliner said a trained person should be hired.

He also pointed out that according to John McGregor, Vancouver smoke inspector, "it was 90 per cent the human element in the case of too much smoke and cinders."

H. R. Stephen, vice-president of New Method Laundries Ltd., 947 North Park Street, told the fire wardens criticisms of his firm by neighboring residents was unfounded, as the company has reduced smoke from its boilers to the absolute minimum in the last five years.

Even fire department officials have been surprised at the lack of smoke, he said.

Reeve's Vote Required On Lot Purchase

Milledge Counsel Plans No Appeal Of Prison Term

Counsel George F. Gregory indicated today that no appeal will be lodged on the two-year prison term meted out Monday to Jack H. Milledge, 23-year-old Victoria tennis star who earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with violence in connection with the June 20 hold-up of the Toby Jug Tearoom at Elk Lake, Saanich.

Milledge was back in city jail today waiting to be escorted to the B.C. penitentiary late tonight or tomorrow.

The two-year sentence was imposed by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court.

Huron Back From Patrol With Record

ABOARD H.M.C.S. HURON (CP)—This Canadian destroyer has returned to a United Nations naval base in south Japan after her latest patrol in four months of Korean service.

Bombarding rail and road facilities behind enemy lines on the east coast of Korea, the Huron fired 1,583 rounds of four-inch shells and 8,984 rounds from close-range weapons—outshooting H.M.C.S. Nootka, which previously held the record for one patrol with 1,623 four-inch and 312 short-range rounds.

The Huron destroyed an enemy train at Chongjin, a major east coast port.

The ship came under enemy fire for the first time from a shore battery of light artillery. The destroyer was not hit and her fire silenced the enemy's battery.

For three days during this patrol, Cmdr. Edward T. G. Madgwick of Halifax and Ottawa, was commander of a task element which included U.S. and Colombian naval vessels.

How To Balkanize Canada

IN THE DYING HOURS OF ITS recent session the Canadian Parliament slipped through a law which strikes at the roots of our federal system and this obviously at the behest of the farm lobby. Under this law the federal government can forbid the movement across inter-provincial boundaries of a dairy product to which a provincial government objects. The product which this incredible legislation is designed to cover is margarine.

Having failed to keep margarine illegal, the farm lobby proposes to attack it through the back door. Provincial legislatures will be urged to declare margarine illegal within the provinces. Without federal co-operation it will be impossible to prevent the movement of margarine from one province to another and its widespread sale, despite any provincial regulation to prohibit it. Prohibition in food would be more difficult to enforce than prohibition in liquor.

Mr. Gardiner, the farmer's faithful agent in the government, has therefore devised a measure completely destructive of the Canadian constitution, by which the government can co-operate with willing provinces in obstructing inter-provincial trade.

The freedom of trade from one province to another is one of the chief bulwarks of Confederation. It may be said, indeed, that a nation is no longer a nation but a congeries of separate sovereignties when it erects barriers between its parts. Yet that precisely is the purpose of the new law. Under it a person who manufactures margarine, or some other product, in one province loses his rights as a Canadian when he attempts to ship it to some other province. If that province objects. The law of a provincial legislature is allowed to override the basic law of the nation. In so far as the new law is applied, a Canadian ceases to be a Canadian and becomes the citizen of a province only and the nation becomes a collection of Balkan states.

True, the law may be applied only to margarine. But as always in law, it is the precedent which matters. If the federal and some provincial governments, in a kind of joint conspiracy, against the consumer, can stop the inter-provincial trade in margarine, a product legal under national law, they can apply the same restrictions later on to other goods. By expansion such a law can presently disrupt all trade within the nation where pressure groups are strong enough to dominate provincial legislatures. The constitution, assuring Canadians equal rights in all provinces, can be turned into a farce.

It is not margarine alone which is at issue here but the federal system. Not only the consumers of margarine, which means most families in Canada, but every Canadian who is interested in the unity of the nation should compel Parliament to repeal what is obviously a tragic mistake.

The farmer, when he thinks the matter through, will understand that the new law can damage him as well as the consumer and the nation at large. What will the British Columbia farmer say if he is forbidden to sell his berries, apples and other products in some other province which tries to protect its local producers by a federal-provincial tariff? And in a world bedeviled by national tariffs (against which the Canadian Government is never tired of protesting) are we to bedevil our own nation in the same fashion?

The Ebbing Tide

THE 'DROF' IN THE FRENCH COMMUNIST recent vote from 28.2 to 26.5 per cent of the electorate is small but it is part of a general trend throughout western Europe. When set against the background of elections in the other European countries it indicates that the tide of communist strength reached high water mark just after the war and, since then, has been receding.

Here is the record as summarized by Mr. Roscoe Drummond in a dispatch to The Christian Science Monitor from Paris: In Austria, despite the presence of Russian troops, only 5 per cent of the voters supported communism in the election of 1949. In Belgium the communist deputies in a house of 212 dropped last year from 12 to 7. Denmark's parliament of 150 includes only 7 communist members. Western Germany elected only 15 communists in its first federal election and none of them received an overall majority. In the Dutch provincial elections a year ago the communists lost 27 seats and now hold only 31 out of a possible 563. In the British election of 1950 the communist vote sank to 91,815 from the 102,780 recorded in 1945.

In this general resistance to communist Italy has proved the only weak spot. At the recent municipal elections the communist vote rose from 31 to 37 per cent, though under a complex voting law the communists lost control of many city governments. Undoubtedly, as Mr. Drummond says, most of the communist vote in Italy (and probably elsewhere) is less ideological than a protest against local economic conditions, which have been bad under all Italian governments for the last half century.

The meaning of all these figures can be appreciated when it is remembered that, in the immediate postwar years, western Europe seemed to be lurching toward chaos. Out of it communism hoped to seize power by default and the eastern European technique of the inside job. In the nick of time western Europe was rescued by the Marshall Plan and with American aid has performed the economic miracle of increasing its production of goods above the pre-war level despite the war's physical devastation. Given the chance of a better life, the people of Europe overwhelmingly reject the easy promises of communism. That lesson will have to be applied to Asia if freedom is to win there.

Some Gain, Many Lose

DESPITE A GENERAL BELIEF TO the contrary, the income of Canadian labor has kept well ahead of the rising cost of living. This is shown by the latest figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It reports that labor income for the first quarter of 1951 was 16 per cent higher than in the same period of 1950. In the same period the cost-of-living index rose by about 9 per cent.

These, of course, are round figures which vary from city to city, trade to trade, family to family. It is abundantly clear, however, that the largest benefits of Canada's present prosperity have gone to those groups among the working people which have managed to raise their wages substantially. The cost of those wages has reflected itself in the prices which everyone must pay, including those whose wages have risen little or, in the case of pensioners and retired people, have not risen at all. Some groups have thus profited by inflation (though they usually denounce it in theory) while others have suffered greatly.

Whatever the case may be in individual industries there is no evidence in the figures of the bureau of statistics to support the argument that wages generally must be raised to keep up with the cost of living. There may be sound reasons for wage increases in underpaid occupations which have lagged behind the general trend. But in the end the nation as a whole cannot raise its real wages without increasing its per capita production of goods.

It may seem to raise its wages by altering the figures on its pay cheque but this is not a real increase since it is canceled out by a corresponding rise in prices. When, however, the nation's production rises and more goods are consumed wages rise automatically, whether the pay cheque is altered or not. If money wages remain the same, prices fall and the wages are worth more.

We have been living in the opposite cycle—money wages in total rising faster than the increase in production, with resulting price increases. Real wages thus have not increased nearly as much as the money wages even in the most highly paid occupations and in some occupations they have fallen drastically. The pattern of inflation is always lopsided, uneven and unjust. Excessive money wages where output is not rising will make it worse.

The Highest Yet

THE APPOINTMENT OF AIR VICE-Marshal John L. Plant to an important post in General Eisenhower's western European defence establishment will be well received in this city where Plant spent his boyhood and received much of his education. A student at Victoria High School, Victoria College and later U.B.C., he was well known here. After graduation he diverted his energies from a career in mechanical engineering to enter the peacetime R.C.A.F. and his advancement has been steady ever since. During the war he served in Britain and Ceylon and for a time was Canadian liaison officer in Seattle, helping integrate American and R.C.A.F. activities.

Plant now goes to Paris as assistant chief of staff for personnel and logistics at the headquarters of Gen. Lauris Norstad, the American commander of the allied air forces in central Europe. This is the highest position yet given a Canadian in the western European defence program and it is one to which Plant will carry the good wishes of all Canadians, particularly those who knew him here.

A Man's A Man...

IN SPOKANE THIS WEEK SPECIAL consideration is being shown to baseball umpires, those magnets for the fans' fire when they call decisions against the home team. The Washington city apparently has reached the conclusion that beneath the blue coats the men don for their duties beat human hearts.

The news stories do not state why these figures—so often the despised and rejected of men—have been singled out for honor, but it is conceivable that Spokane has come to realize the truth of Burns' famous quotation about a man being a man, for a' that—even if he's a baseball umpire.

Extended a little further, the sentiment might cure some of the ills of the world. It might even reflect an appreciation for human dignity among people who speak such foreign tongues as the umpires use. It could be an example of an amended application of President Truman's famous "Point Four." Yet there is a chilling thought in the procedure. As one courtesy, the umpires will be given breakfast in bed. For what are they being fattened?

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE GOOD Dr. Rabelais, as you may remember, felt that life in the country was too nerve-shattering, because of the frightful noises always going on there, day and night. In Urquhart's translation (which much improves on the original at this point) we are warned against a hundred rural sounds, ranging all the way from the mere barking of Curs and bawling of Mastiffs to the far more sinister and unbearable howling of Panthers, buzzing of Dromedaries, boing of Buffalo and God knows what. He particularly objected to the ranting of the Rats and the muzzling of the Rabbits. I have been annoyed by muzzling rabbits myself. It is not a loud noise, but it is a hideous and foolish noise, and means less than nothing. It reminds me of a certain switchboard operator against whom I have struggled far too long.

I DON'T think Rabelais detested the country so much as he pretended. He was just making a point worth noting. We have the evidence of his friend and fellow-poet, the great Ronsard (who was also, I think, a fellow-priest). They used to sneak out together at night and have convivial parties, and Rabelais would lie flat on his back in the long country grasses, between the glasses, laughing fit to kill and singing his wise old head off. It is a picture not without charm, whether the scene was laid in a city garden or a country meadow. But we know it was in the country, near Meudon, and it seems all the fresher for that. Bless their innocent hearts, both of them.

WELL, my not-so-hearties, I suddenly felt to wondering this noisy summer morning what Rabelais (or Urquhart either) would have made of the complete din and bedlam of a modern mechanical home. Even a very few labor-saving machines going at the same time are enough to drive you nuts. In quite a typical modern house it would be possible to hear, simultaneously, the jangling of telephones, the wracking of typewriters, the howling of radios, the grinding of automatic laundries, the howling of vacuum cleaners, the hissing of steam-irons, the banging of salesmen, the shrieking of babies who mustn't be thwarted, the buzzing of floor-polishers, the hums of fans or heaters, the roaring of furnaces or oil-stoves, and the yelling of the humans who have to make themselves audible above all this. I forgot to mention the practising of piano students, the whizzing of Mixmasters, the drumming of sewing-machines, and a dozen other fiendish madnesses. But you get the idea.

I WONDER if Rabelais would have got the idea. And would he have laughed or groaned? I fancy he would have taken immediate steps... swift, big steps... to get beyond the reach of electrical power, at any rate. The boing of buffalos would have seemed a rest-cure, and downright soothing.

FOOTNOTE ON URQUHART

THIS mention of Rabelaisian matters reminds me that some years ago, in one of his rather fake-scholarly articles in the New Yorker, that anti-British German, H. L. Mencken, said that the British art of swearing was killed stone-dead by Cromwell's Puritans. This made me laugh and swear a lot, for I recalled that in the very midst of Cromwell's reign, Urquhart was publishing the first two or three books of Rabelais, and filling them with language that would make Mr. Mencken's hair stand on end.

And by the way, when the Restoration came to end the Puritan interlude, Urquhart died of joy... quite literally died of joy that the King had come into his own again. And Urquhart was only a little Calvinistic Scottish squire, mind you, not a roistering Cavalier. But at least in his writing and his dying he did two wonderful things that would pass the understanding of any mere Mencken.

CLEAR AS MUD

A SHORT time ago on the radio we were privileged to hear Dr. Hoyle, the well-known Cambridge astronomer and mathematician. He was explaining his views about a universe that is beyond explanation. While admitting there were more things in heaven (or the heavens) and earth than were dreamt of in his philosophy, he managed to suggest that it was exactly his lack of knowledge that made religion look silly. By proving himself and ourselves ignorant, he felt he was proving that God could not exist. And he did this in a smart debater's manner, which made me wonder if he had not been bitten by a Christian in early youth.

I WAS especially amused by his deploing the "fact" that there is no link between any two human minds. Actually, of course, there are several such links. I can name you half a dozen offhand. There is the link of love. There is telepathy (a proven phenomenon). There is a mass-consciousness, and perhaps even a racial memory (see Dr. Jung). There is Communism, in every sense. And there is a kinship with God. Hoyle claims such things are Not According to Hoyle. But he does so with a bleak bitterness that makes you feel him more frustrated than scientific.

AS he spoke, I found myself repeating some half-remembered lines, whose author I don't even know: Whereas 'twould through time and space Has swiftly been disposed to run From some place to some other place By glint of star and blaze of sun, And since we know not, nor can know, From where we come or where we go, Or with our loudest cries retard The engine-driver and the guard, How wise who wrote upon the door: "Ne pas se pencher au dehors."

That is to say, "Don't lean out the train windows, fellows." Dr. Hoyle seemed to me to be split into two chaps, one leaning out and hating it, and the other hiding under the seat and hating it.

PERFORMING ANIMALS

Many people have the mistaken idea that performing animals are trained by kindness.

Following are a few of the instruments used in training these animals—steel-lined whip, nailed club, goad, red-hot iron, spiked collar and electricity.

K. E. MORTON.

Sidney, B.C.

FORBIDDEN MEAT

According to the Bible we are forbidden to eat horse meat. The only animals we are to eat are those with a cloven hoof: cattle, swine, sheep, etc. Are most of the population in this country heathen?

Are not the churches going to fight this going against the word of the Almighty? I am not a Salvation Army man, but they are the only ones I have any hope of doing so.

W. S. OLDFIELD.

PROTOCOL

It is barely 24 hours since the announcement was made of the impending Royal visit, yet in a recent Times no less than four front page headings refer to "Elizabeth and Philip." Are we to be subjected to this for the next two or three months?

I am not in favor of kowtowing, but I do believe in paying honor and respect where it is due, and no one will deny that the princess and her husband have earned and deserve the universal admiration and goodwill which is accorded to them.

Familiarity breeds contempt and although this exhibition of poor taste may be excused or even approved south of the line, please do not allow one of the world's most popular couples to be reduced to the level of the Ritas, Judys, Errols and Mickeyes of Hollywood.

G. G. GUNN.

(Editor's Note: Reader Gunn should try to write "Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip" in a one-column headline some day.)

RAIL RATES

Your editorial of May 2 on Railways and Consumers draws attention to the fact that the railways are asking for another freight rate increase. You seem to think that this is unfair.

Wholesale prices in general in Canada have risen by more than 140 per cent since 1949. Railway freight rates have risen by 45 per cent.

Now, in the United States, railway freight rates have gone up more than 61 per cent. In Britain, under a Socialist government, rates have gone up 99 per cent.

You say that the railways are trying to fasten the cost of a wage increase on the public. Actually, the government is fastening this on the public, for the government, with the approval of the Parliament of Canada, forced the railways to concede a wage increase which the companies objected to granting. Surely, in such a case, the railway companies have no alternative but to ask for increased rates.

You admit that the Canadian National cannot be used as a yardstick, because, as we all know, the Canadian National has been highly subsidized in the past by the Canadian government, and actually operates at a loss. The Canadian Pacific has to be used as a yardstick.

You point out that in 1950 the Canadian Pacific earned $38 million, against $20 million—the previous year. The Canadian Pacific has a property investment which runs over $1,000 million. Surely you must realize how ridiculous it is to suggest that $20 million, or $38 million, can be regarded as an adequate net return on such an investment.

This country depends on railway services. Do you want these railway services on a fair and just basis, or do you want them below cost, with the differences made up out of taxes, and all the troubles which would arise if all the railways in Canada were brought under political control?

That, I maintain, is the only question. I suggest that you put it to your readers in those terms.

FAIR MINDED.

Calgary, Alta.

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

STRANGE things have been happening in these mountains (my friend Toory O'Donovan wrote from Banff) since your pals Hamish and Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) arrived here on their westward journey. Of course you heard about the Colonel buying a glacier and trying to sell pieces of ice to American tourists.

Well, they didn't find very many customers for that project, and being dead broke, it looked as though Hamish and the Colonel would be with us for a long time. The town council was meeting to discuss the emergency when your wife's money order arrived.

Hamish wanted to purchase a couple of bus tickets for the coast (you know, of course, that the railroad and the airlines put up the S.R.O. sign whenever they see Hamish and the Colonel coming), but the Colonel called Hamish a sissy and asked him, where was his pioneering spirit? Hamish admitted sadly that he didn't suppose he had one, but, anyway, the upshot was that the Colonel bought a horse.

It wasn't much of a horse, but it had four legs and ate grass, and the whole of Banff turned out to watch them depart. The Colonel was in the saddle and Hamish was riding on the stern, and they clattered out of town in the general direction of the Pacific Ocean—the Colonel shouting: "For'ard, the Lancers!" and Hamish bobbing up and down behind him.

This so frightened the wild life in the vicinity of Banff that the town was soon crowded with milling hordes of deer, wapiti and hoary marmosets, and it is reliably reported that an enormous grizzly was discovered at the back door of the local pub, its huge body shaking with fear and its eyes pleading pitifully. On the other hand, inmates of the local pub have seen stranger things than that, at times.

It seems that Hamish and the Colonel passed Lake Louise at a slow trot and reached the Divide without accident. They got off the horse at this point (whereupon the animal lay down and went quietly to sleep) and they listened with deep interest to a guide who was explaining to a group of tourists about this famous spot on the border of Alberta and British Columbia.

"And, ladies and gentlemen," explained the guide, "you see this small stream that trickles at my feet? You see where it divides—one part flowing east and the other west? This is the Continental Divide. From here these little streams will become mighty, rushing rivers—to the east, flowing into Hudson Bay—to the west, emptying eventually into the Pacific. And now, ladies and gentlemen, I have some magnificent colored views of this and other beauty spots—ten for a dollar..."

When the tourists had left, Hamish made an attempt to rouse the sleeping horse. But the animal was having none of it. Hamish called to the Colonel for help, but that worthy was deep in thought.

"Hamish," said the Colonel eventually, "I've been thinking about what that fellow said. I mean, about the Divide and the rivers originating here in this stream. You and I, Hamish, could change the whole face of Canada. Do you realize that, my boy?"

So those busy beavers got to work. And if you're missing a couple of rivers out in your part of the country, this is just to let you know that they're now running east into Hudson Bay.

The guide discovered the stream was gone when he returned the next day with another party of tourists (Toory wrote as a postscript). After much frantic searching he discovered where Hamish and the Colonel had dammed it up—it only runs a few feet—and got it trickling again.

So take cheer. Canada is safe again—for the time being. Yours, Toory O'D.

Price Is The Main Complaint

By HARRY YOUNG

WHILE the fair distribution of newsprint is a major problem in which the Canadian government must play at least an advisory role with the great Canadian newsprint industry, there is another problem, almost as important facing the industry—the price of paper.

Last fall the newsprint manufacturers of Canada acting one after the other announced a price raise of $10 a ton. In the face of stern criticism, the International Paper Co. made a compromise by limiting the increase to $6 a ton, and this modified figure was eventually followed by the whole industry. At the same time, officials of the big companies stated they were not satisfied with the situation that further advances in an upward direction were imminent.

Only last month in Victoria, Harold S. Foley, president of Powell River, told local shareholders that there was only one thing wrong with the price of newsprint. "It was too cheap."

So it came as no surprise to those who have followed the marketing of paper and pulp companies shares when the Abitibi Co. on June 1 announced it would raise the price of its newsprint on July 1 by $10 a ton.

This statement was quickly copied by other leading newsprint manufacturers, Consolidated, International and Anglo-Canadian. Another storm of protest broke out, and then still in the pattern of what happened in the fall the Powell River Co. put in the apper by announcing that it would ask only $6 a ton extra for its pulp.

FANNED FIRE

The similarity of the action has fanned the fire which has been smoldering in the United States against the Canadian newsprint manufacturers.

It would be hard to convince North American newspaper proprietors that these tactics of individual announcements and then amendments are not all a thin disguise to cloak joint action.

In the U.S. Senate the Canadian Newsprint Association has been accused of price-fixing and of deliberately holding production to a level at which there will always be a shortage. These are not nice charges.

Not are the comments of some United States publishers and owners. John S. Knight of Knight Newspapers referring to the increasing profits made by the newsprint companies said of the increase: "Politically it is stupid. Morally it smells."

Marshall Field Jr. of the Chicago Sun-Times gave the view that the $10 increase would bring in another $50,000,000 a year to an already highly profitable industry.

Henry D. Bradley of St. Joseph's (Mo.) Gazette and News Press said: "I only hope they don't price both of us out of business."

SAME SITUATION

The situation in Canada is much the same. Most newspaper publishers or owners feel that the newspaper industry which can only increase its income by advancing advertising rates is being severely threatened by the second newsprint hike. Publishers point out that much advertising is by long range contract and that any increase cannot be effected at a moment's notice.

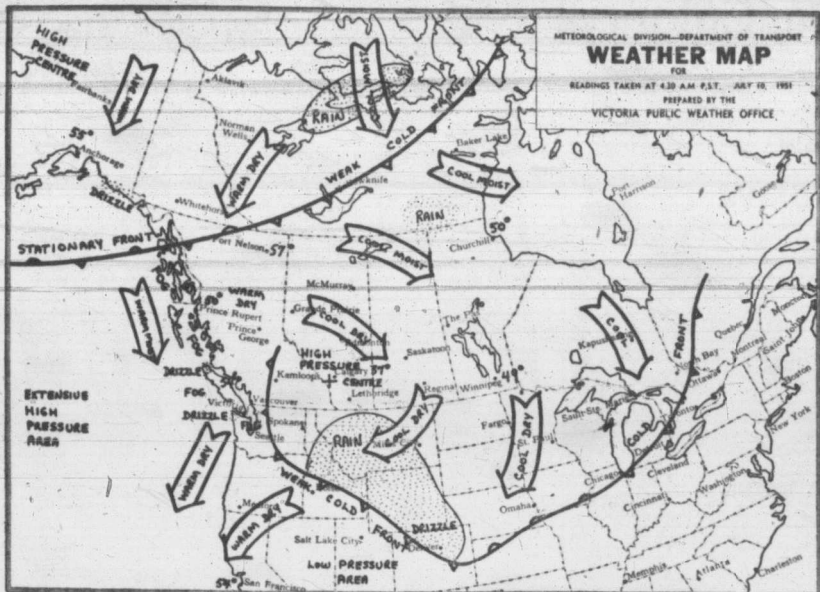

While this is true, the newsprint manufacturers claim they cannot increase their production of newsprint unless the price they can obtain for their product is attractive enough to justify big capital expenditure.

On the inability of the newspapers to pay the increased rates the newsprint manufacturers retort that many U.S. firms, desperate for additional supplies of newsprint, were willing to go into a "grey market" and purchase newsprint outside of their quota at $200 a ton.

That in itself does not improve the temper of a newsprint industry that considers itself ill-used by its present price level.

Death Reduces British Labor Majority To Four

LONDON (Reuters)—The government's parliamentary majority dropped to four Monday with the death of George Saville Woods, 62, Labor member for Droylsden, York.

Woods' death left the standing in the 625-seat House of Commons: Labor 313; Conservatives and allies (including Conservative speaker who votes only in tie) 298; Liberals 9; Irish Nationalists (one has not taken seat) 2; Independent 1; Unionist 1; vacant 1.

RELIEF AT LAST—CONSTIPATION GONE!

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasall

The thinning of tree fruits for the purpose of improving the size and quality of the remainder has been advised for many decades. Not only is a finer product obtained, but thinning also provides a means of destroying fruits which are damaged by insects or disease.

Gardeners complain that the work is fussy and time consuming, and this is true. But the same may be said of many things which are worth the having. Considering that the fruit has to be picked sooner or later, it would appear to be good common sense to destroy damaged specimens early in the season and have the balance of the crop worth harvesting and storing.

The most common mistake in thinning is to fail to remove enough fruit, and—gentlemen, please note—it has been proved that the ladies are the most proficient at this work. The best results are obtained if the job is done immediately after the completion of the June drop.

When thinning apples, first remove fruits inferior in size, malformed and defective, and those on the under sides of lower branches which would not color well. The balance is then spaced at six to eight inches, and varieties which set fruit in clusters are reduced to one fruit per spur, usually the centre one. No fruits should touch, except in varieties which bear in terminal clusters (Winter Banana) when providing clearance would greatly reduce the crop.

Heavily-loaded peach trees of early varieties should be reduced by 50 per cent, finishing with a spacing of about six inches; later varieties, naturally larger in size, to about four inches, removing 30 per cent of the crop.

The greatest response to thinning is found among the plums, especially those varieties which bear fruit in ropes along the branches. Reducing the crop to three-inch spacing results in greatly-increased size without affecting the yield.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

When the country's bridge experts gather in Washington, D.C., a week from today for the beginning of national championships, a large southern contingent will be on hand. They'll probably carry off a fair share of the honors, too, for those southern boys and girls can play the spots off the cards.

The hand shown today was played in last year's national tournament. Declarer was a city slicker from Brooklyn. The defenders were not exactly country boys, but they were from the south.

West (Herbert Gerst of Norfolk, Va.) opened the king of clubs. Declarer ruffed in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds, and ruffed a diamond in his hand. He next ruffed a second club in dummy, got to his hand with the ace of spades, and ruffed a third club in dummy.

He then led another diamond from dummy. East (Lt. Col. J. T. Willis of Rome, Ga.) casually played the king of diamonds, hoping South would think it was safe to ruff low.

This was a fine play, but our Brooklyn boy didn't fall for it. He ruffed with the ace of hearts, shutting West out. West thoughtfully discarded the king of spades.

Declarer next led his last club and ruffed with dummy's last trump. Then he got out of dummy

'Hi Pardner' Common Salute, Calgary

CALGARY (CP).—As it has done yearly since 1912, the city of Calgary this week succumbs to the rip-roaring spell of its chief claim to fame, the color-packed exhibition and stampede.

The city of 137,000 persons, located in the heart of Canada's ranching country, has its ranks swelled by thousands of holiday-makers from across the continent. Its modern streets take on the aspect of a wild-west "cow-town" for the week.

The conventional "hello" is ditched for the west's friendly

"Hi pardner" and the air re-spurs jingle on cement sidewalks sounds with the shrill "yippee" instead of board walks or mud of modern-day cowboys whose roads.

VACATION GUIDE

Many Points Of Interest Abound Sooke Area

Power and more power—The harnessing of water at the B.C. Electric power plant, Jordan River. Power is supplied for homes, offices and industries of southern Vancouver Island.

A comfortable quarter-hour's drive from Sooke is the interesting landmark known as Wells-Weary. Here vacationers are privileged to see Mother Nature in action. From a natural, freshwater spring... set in the midst of dense brush and tall timber... beautiful, bubbling waters flow in a steady stream downwards, emptying into the open sea.

It is not unusual to find many cars parked on the vast expanse of flat land bordering Todd's Gordon Trap. Two miles past Wells-Weary, the Gordon Trap flats offer a wonderful view of the magnificent Olympic mountains and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Still farther on, a couple of miles from Jordan River, is picturesque Point-No-Point... featuring two lovely beaches, both with hard-packed sand. On the tip of Point-No-Point is an abandoned R.C.A.F. spotting station, from the interior of which one may look for miles at unending coastline.

One of the most interesting sights of them all... are the twin waterfalls of surging Sandstone Creek. Gallons of roaring water team torrentially over the edge of a rugged sandstone bluff... giving off an endless spray, and producing colorful, ever-changing rainbows.

Jordan River, several miles from Sooke, is the home of the mighty B.C. Electric power plant. Here, thousands of gallons of water are harnessed daily, to produce electrical power for the homes, offices and industries of southern Vancouver Island.

'Beauty And The Beast'

Dorothy Brown, Mario Ivanov and old "Rosie," leader of the three herds of Clyde Beatty elephants, pose prettily for the photographer. In circus language, all elephants are bulls regardless of sex, and are most necessary around the circus. Besides appearing as performers, they pull up the huge poles, lift the canvas and move wagons. Elephants never lie down to sleep in their cars but rest after their work is done on the lot. Three herds of "bulls" will appear with the Clyde Beatty circus in Victoria at Victoria West Park tomorrow, Thursday and Friday.

NEWEST THING IN ART

Pictures, Statuary At 'The Barn' Gardens

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

The newest thing in art exhibitions for Victoria at any rate—is an un-housed one! Pictures and statuary on display without benefit of walls and roof and with no lighting arrangement other than the sun and a few clouds.

Visitors to the gardens of "The Barn" Studio of Peggy Packard and David Packard, Lansdowne Road, found an enchanting experience awaiting them Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Bronze nymphs and barefoot boys were happily situated beside a shadowed pool and in grottos of tall shrubs. An ancient oak played host to a ring of bracket-borne sculpture; tree stumps supported children at play and asleep, caught in the spell of clay and plaster.

Most of the child studies, revealing loving observation and expressive charm, were the work of Mrs. G. V. Sawyer. A pair of Balinese heads by Mrs. G. F. Baird, a sea-horse by Helene Alton and one or two pieces by Mrs. Julia Metzel caught the eye of this reviewer. Quite a good likeness was achieved by Larry Howard, in a bust of his wife.

Feature of the "clothesline" exhibit of pictures, was work done by pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Packard and Oak Bay High School students under their tuition.

Youngest exhibitor was 21-months old Wendy Packard. In Norah MacLennan, a Grade XII student at Oak Bay, we perceived a quality, a sense of line and color that could make a first class theatre designer in a few years' time.

An unfinished mural by Frank Lewis, as well as other work by this grade 11 student, reveals great originality and skill. Ann Storr and Bruce Holker also show particular promise, and if space allowed, one would like to mention many more.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

'Eloquent Pause' Secret To Gale Gordon's Success

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Silence is golden, especially if you can keep mum as artfully as Gale Gordon.

A handsome, fortyish, gentleman with a Clark Gable mustache and the trace of a British accent, he is known in the radio trade as "The Master of the Eloquent Pause."

You undoubtedly know him by voice if you're any kind of a radio fan—he appears regularly on seven big U.S. network programs. Gordon is:

Mayor Latrivia on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" show; bank president Rudolph Atterbury on "My Favorite Husband"; school principal Osgood Conklin on "Our Miss Brooke"; Mr. Scott, head of R.C.A., on the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show; Mr. Merryweather, Ronald Colman's rich friend on "Halls of Ivy"; Mr. Bullard, the next door neighbor, on "The Great Gildersleeve"; and the girl friend's father on the Dennis Day show.

"These characters are off of a type, pompous, stuffy, opinionated and loud," says Gordon. "Therefore, it is easy to make them humorous if the script writer is skillful."

What is the eloquent pause? Here is an example from, say, the Fibber McGee show:

McGee says something insulting or aggravating. Gordon, as Latrivia, should properly reply with anger or frustration—something quick and sarcastic. But he doesn't.

"I wait. There is a long pause. I am trying to control my temper. The audience knows this and in its mind it is going over all the possible answers I may give. "Then, at last, I come out with a very flat remark. Maybe something as simple as the one word, 'yes.' It is doubly funny because everyone listening knows that you fought off a temptation to explode into something more violent."

Schoolold in England, he broke into show business on Broadway and was a leading man in stock companies before settling in Hollywood in 1936.

Composer Of Many Old Favorites Dies At 73

CHICAGO (AP)—Egbert Anson Van Alstyne, 73, composer of more than 500 songs including "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "Pretty Baby," died Monday following a stroke. He had been ill for some time with arthritis and suffered a bout of pneumonia this spring.

A native of Marengo, Ill., Van Alstyne at the age of seven played the organ for a Methodist Sunday school. He started his professional career as a pianist and director for traveling theatrical companies.

For many years he appeared in vaudeville with a song-writing partner, Harry Williams.

His songs included "Memories," "Old Pal," "Your Eyes Have Told Me So," "Navajo," "Sunshine and Roses," "That Old Girl of Mine," "Drifting and Dreaming" and "The Little Old Church in the Valley."

Let's PLAY SAFE

Here's a new SEIBERLING-sponsored safety campaign directed specifically to pre-school children, an age group that has been almost overlooked in plans to reduce traffic injuries. LET'S PLAY SAFE is a colorfully illustrated collection of safety verses, nursery rhymes and safety songs—plus a coloring book section and an exciting safety game! They are written in simple language the kiddies can understand, and each jingle shows how to avoid one of the most frequent causes of traffic casualties. They can be recited with favourite nursery rhymes or retold time and time again with cherished bedtime stories, each repetition driving home an important safety message. Encourage your youngsters to learn them by heart—help them avoid traffic accidents by making safety a habit right from the start.

BASEBALL SCHOOL

Times, A's Sponsors

As in past seasons, the Victoria Times will this year co-sponsor a baseball school in co-operation with the Victoria Athletics.

The two-day school will be held at Athletic Park Aug. 9 and 10. It will be open to all baseball-minded youngsters on Vancouver Island under the age of 19 years.

In making the joint announcement, general manager Reg Patterson of the Athletics, said the school will be in charge of manager Bob Sturgeon with members of the team acting as instructors.

It is also hoped to have Yakima manager Bill Bremner and Vancouver manager Bill Schuster assist in the project. Yakima Bears will close out a four-game series here on Aug. 9, while the Capitanos will open a four-game series at Athletic Park on Aug. 10.

Fundamentals in batting, throwing, base-running, sliding and other phases of the game will be taught at the two-day clinic. Pupils will be divided into the various classifications — pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders, and private instruction given to such groups.

Registration dates will be announced later but all registrations will be published through the Victoria Baseball and Athletic Club, Athletic Park, on a form which will be published on the Times sport pages.

In announcing an age limit Patterson stressed the fact that anyone who does not fall within the limit may attend the school if he so desires. "We wouldn't want to deprive anyone of the opportunity of bettering himself," Patterson said.

Further information on the school will be published from time to time, but for those desiring immediate knowledge, either the Times sports department or Patterson will be only too willing to oblige.

65-POUNDER LANDED ON 12-POUND LEAD

NEAH BAY, Wash. (UP)—Jack Hillier of Seattle boated a 65-pound King salmon here Sunday morning with a 12-pound test leader. The big lunger measured 52 inches in length and 32 inches around. It took almost a minute a pound to land.

Good fishing was also reported at Sekiu. Karl Haufner, also of Seattle, landed a 49-pounder and two others at Hope Island. A 45-pound King was also hooked there.

Cutthroat fishing at Camano Island continued good during the week-end. Silvers and small blackmouths at Manchester were reported fair, and Possession Bar gave up some blackmouth and many smaller fish.

Marlboros Withdraw

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Marlboros announced last night they are withdrawing—for at least one season—from senior hockey.

Marlboro officials told a meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association that the team would release players to other clubs "provided that they be returned should we re-enter senior or major hockey."

SENSATIONAL WEEK

Ritchey Moves Into W.I.L. Batting Lead

TACOMA (AP)—A sensational 19-for-36 week with the willow has boosted Vancouver's John Ritchey into the driver's seat in the Western International league batting race with a .352 average.

An even 20 points behind teammate Dick Sinovic, a week ago their marks were .338 and .378, respectively—Ritchey picked up 24 points, while Sinovic, limited to seven hits in 37 trips, slumped to .357.

Len Neal, Wenatchee catcher, is third with .355, down two points from last week. While shorn of the batting lead, Sinovic remains comfortably ahead in the runs-batted-in race with '74, having increased the total by five. Tied for runner-up honors with 59 are no fewer than four players, Reno Cheso of Vancouver, Butch Moran of Tacoma, Buddy Peterson of Tri-City and Hal Jackson of Victoria.

Wenatchee's Will Hayfe boosted his league-leading home run mark to 11 with a Saturday night round-tripper at Tri-City, while Vic Buccola of Tri-City and Bill White are tied for the second spot with nine apiece.

Batting leaders follow:

Player	Team	AB	R	H	HR	AVG

Coleman's Column

By JIM COLEMAN

An examination of the competitors in last week's Canadian Open golf tournament made it glaringly apparent that there is immediate need of reform in men's clothing. Egad—some of those gossamers who strutted around the Mississauga course in pursuit of the pesky pellet looked as if they had been in the direct path of a pall of paint dropped from a high building project.

One contestant appeared to have slashed his own throat and it was feared that he was bleeding to death. However, upon closer inspection, it transpired that he was wearing a cravat of such startling radiance that it reflected third-degree burns at a range of 25 yards.

Without any further shilly-shallying, your correspondent is going to campaign industriously for the return of the good old plus-fours.

Ah—there was a costume for you! Who can forget the picture of Alex Braid, his moustaches waving in the wind, his number two wood clenched firmly under his right arm and his noble limbs encased in plus-fours as he gazed triumphantly over the fairways at St. Andrews?

Or what Westerner doesn't remember Eric Bannister, wearing a smart belted jacket and plus-fours and puffing on a briar pipe as he massacred the ball with his number one iron at St. Charles in Winnipeg?

And there was Davie Black, striding around Shaughnessy Heights on legs that protruded from his plus-fours like branches of a Douglas fir tree.

A Matter Of Honor, Sirrah

One professional golfer who has refused to be stamped by the revolting modern trend in habilements is the veteran Willie Freeman, of Toronto's York Downs. Mr. Freeman has reason to be proud of his lower limbs which are curved gracefully like the long-booms employed by the British archers at Crecy and Poitiers.

When Mr. Freeman is the member of a gallery, standing on the green-apron there is always an unimpeded view for at least two small boys who can peer between Mr. Freeman's legs to observe the putting.

The late great Walter Hagen may have kept the Prince of Wales waiting for him on the first tee but he would never have committed such a gauche as arriving at the first tee wearing a pair of rumpled plus-fours. Invariably, The Haig was an elegant sight as he started a round, pausing only long enough to wipe the lingering little beads of his last martini from his lips.

It is a sad and horrifying fact that, in his declining years, The Great Man permitted himself to be photographed in a pair of white flannel trousers. However, we have always felt that he must have been the victim of gathering senility or he had been drugged by some importunate clothing manufacturer, much the same as the Communists drug their enemies to extract "confessions" from them.

The Golfers' Answer To Prohibition

Plus-fours are utilitarian as well as handsome garments. A skilled tailor can provide compartments for carrying rule books, first aid kits, medicinal spirits and small books which you may peruse to pass the time when you're playing behind a particularly tardy foursome of women.

One of our American friends, who used to travel to Victoria during the years of The Great Drought, invariably wore his plus-fours on the return journey to Seattle.

Hidden by these capacious pantaloons, he carried two flagons of Old Doc Oswald Dunsomere's Family Remedy, fastened to his legs with adhesive tape. He clanked a bit when he walked but he explained this to suspicious customs officers with the ingenious fiction that the mechanical leg that he had acquired after the Battle of The Meuse, simply needed a grease job on the knee-joint.

What can the golfer who wears shorts offer to refute this overpowering evidence? A few short-clad golfers whom we interviewed at Mississauga last week offered the sheepish excuse that their shorts were "so cool."

Cool but gashly.

TWO-DAY CHAMPIONSHIPS

Leading Marksmen To Show In Police Shoot

Scores of top-flight pistol marksmen started to gather in Victoria today from Pacific Northwest centres to take part in the annual Victoria City Police Revolver Club championship tournament at the Thetis Lake range tomorrow and Thursday.

Constable Nap Bouchard, club secretary, reported that at least 10 new faces will be on hand for the big shooting classic which will be climaxed with a buffet supper, prize-giving and dance in the Montrey Cafe Thursday night at 7.

The shoot attracts many policemen from B.C. and Washington State cities but also includes quite a number of ranking civilian marksmen. Program includes scores of top-flight pistol marksmen started to gather in Victoria today from Pacific Northwest centres to take part in the annual Victoria City Police Revolver Club championship tournament at the Thetis Lake range tomorrow and Thursday.

COAST LEAGUE TO MEET WITH PRAIRIE ICE CLUBS

The future of the proposed merger of the Pacific Coast Hockey League with Calgary, Saskatoon and Edmonton will be discussed at a special meeting Sunday.

The meeting will be held in Edmonton where P.C.H.L. club owners and league president Al Leader will meet with representatives of the prairie teams.

Leader met with P.C.H.L. directors in Vancouver yesterday but no definite decision was reached. Leader announced that the move to merge with the prairie teams seemed favorable.

The only drawback to the venture would be the added traveling expenses imposed on the coast teams with the expansion of the league.

A possibility is the formation of two separate leagues with an interlocking schedule.

STILL FAVORED

Leonard Stroke Back In Pro Golf Tourney

HAMILTON (CP)—The Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship tournament winds up today with Stan Leonard still favored to retain his title.

The draw called for Leonard to make a late start on the final 36 holes of the 54-hole event. He was matched in a threesome with Arnold McLean of Montreal.

Whitlock, who shot a 71 in yesterday's opening round, and Fred Wood of Vancouver Shaughnessy Heights, whose initial card also was 71.

Leonard himself posted a 71 yesterday, playing under over-cast skies and hampered by a stiff southwest wind.

That was a stroke behind the leader, Stan Horne of Montreal Islesmere, who made the only par score of the first 18 holes. The winner will take $1,000 as top prize. If he wishes to play in the Tam O'Shanter tournament in Chicago, an additional $1,000 will be thrown in.

Others well in the front after the opening round were Gerry Proulx of Ottawa Chaudiere with 71 and Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockway. Murray Tucker of London, Ungdale, Dick Borthwick of Hamilton Ancaster and Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield, all with 72.

Mrs. Stewart Winner
In an inter-club lawn bowling championship recently Mrs. W. Stewart of the Burnside Bowling Club captured the women's singles crown by defeating Mrs. W. Peddle of Lake Hill.

HUTTON JUST MISSES
Len Hutton, England opening batsman, just failed to score his 100th century in first-class cricket, a distinction held by only 12 cricketers. He was not out when the game ended.

John Ikin and Reg Simpson, only other England player to bat in England's second innings, did their best to help Hutton to his target by refusing to take singles and doing little scoring as possible.

When play resumed after lunch, Hutton needed to knock up three runs and then make a hit for six. He got the three runs but could only manage a four with his last stroke, the ball just dropping short of the fence.

Scorecard:
South Africa first innings 154; second 191.
England first innings 211; second 142 for 1.
England second innings details:
L. Hutton, not out 98

Players Favor Reserve Clause

DETROIT (AP)—Major league ball players were formally on record today in favor of the controversial reserve clause.

The 16-player representatives from each team in the majors, meeting here on the eve of the all-star baseball game, voted last night in favor of a resolution giving club owners a vote of confidence in their retention of the reserve clause.

The biggest day in senior A softball will be held at Central Park Sunday when the Victoria All-star team meets a team selected from the remainder of the league.

The game will be preceded by a field day, in which players will match talents in base-running, hitting, pitching and throwing. The field events are slated to begin at 1.30.

Proceeds from the game will go to A.C.T. charities.

CLOWNS PLEASE
The Iowa Colored Ghosts ended their three-game exhibition with the Senior A Men's Softball League last night by defeating Butler Aces 4-1.

During their week-end stay in town the Ghosts gained a host of fans and the bumper crowds that attended the games sat tight and enjoyed every minute of play.

Aces stayed strictly to the script until the game broke out into a comedy after the seventh inning, and they everybody, including the bat boy and fans got into the act.

On the completion of their famous "shadow ball" play and slow motion fielding and base running the Ghosts were mobbed by kids looking for autographs.

Tonight the Senior A League reverts back to regular play with Pitzer and Nex meeting the B.C. Forest Products. Game time is 6.30.

All-Star team follows:

Bowling Title Won By Davis

The Vancouver Island lawn bowling championship and the Peace Cup, went to Harry Davis of the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Club over the week-end. He won the coveted trophy and title from Lt. Col. Baxandall of the Victoria Club.

A field of 72 entries represented all Greater Victoria clubs and included four contestants from Nanaimo. Play was at Beacon Hill green. In the semifinals besides Davis and Baxandall were T. Owen and W. Moorehouse.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

While Vancouver scribes and editors, too, continue to compare Victoria Shamrocks to Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Commandos to New Westminster Royals—to wit, the best team lost, and the other club, that foreign aggregation—just swaggered in and took all the loot by their sheer brassness, the same Shamrocks face their stiffest test of the Inter-city Lacrosse League season at Vancouver tonight.

The Shamrocks have a new song, you know. It hasn't got a real title—at least nothing like the title the Shamrocks had last year "As green as their sweaters"—but it's got a tune, a lively little melody that rhymes with Mann Cup.

But Mann Cup or not, the Shamrocks are still not complete masters of the situation, a situation that continues to exist mainly because of the Vancouver Combines, which club the Shamrocks meet tonight.

The story of the Combines goes back to 1950 when in Vancouver there existed two teams—Vancouver Burrards and Richmond Kerrisdale. Neither club enjoyed particular success in the business of winning lacrosse games, especially Richmond, except on those occasions when Richmond happened to play Victoria.

The 9-1 drubbing administered to the Rocks at home one night last summer will be the best remembered of Richmond's 1950 history in the league.

Feeling the player pinch this year, the Burrards and Kerrises amalgamated and though they have been traveling in no definite direction whenever the word Nanaimo appears on the schedule (three defeats by the coal towners) the Combines nevertheless more than make schedule connections whenever the word "Shamrock" appears on their itinerary.

As a matter of fact the whole thing is getting beyond a joke as far as the Irish are concerned, Vancouver press reports notwithstanding, and to date this season the Combines have used the Rocks as a pawn in their game of men and sticks, though not so adept with those sticks as the Commandos, who use such implements adroitly as a means of torture to their opponents.

If It Weren't For The Combines . . .

Tonight Combines meet the Rocks once again and if the pattern runs true, they will emerge victorious, for three times this season in only four meetings between the teams, they have proved the masters. To the Shamrocks this is exasperating, as if it weren't for the Combines they would be resting on their laurels as league champions, they have outclassed the remainder of the league by such a wide margin.

To get down to cases, we think it's about time that credit is given where credit is due. The Shamrocks are, as of now, the best team in the Inter-city Lacrosse League, even though since the start of the season New Westminster Commandos have been the "best team on paper." But then, that is paper talk, Vancouver paper talk, and until the Commandos get out of the blueprint stage and commence the actual production of fashioning a league championship, then let's put the mantle of supremacy where it belongs.

PICKING UP THE PIECES—Found—An organization which does not want publicity. . . For the record there was a senior hockey meeting in the city on Sunday, various delegates were present. Various items were discussed and various opinions were formed, but when it was all over, there was nothing available for public consumption. The same meeting continues today with the same subjects on the agenda. . . This brings to mind that the recent meeting between the P.C.H.L. and Western Canada Hockey League clubs was also "top secret" until the story broke in Regina. . .

Dr. Jack Patterson hosted the Shamrocks at a stag Friday last. . . He proved a good one. . . Thanks for the letter J.B. on the junior golf. . . We think a clinic in the schools would be a wonderful thing. . . Cougar manager Fred Hutchinson shrugged off the story of some of the Cougars being sold to Vancouver with: "Sure lots of teams would like to have 'em." . . . So far I have heard nothing about it; but it's possible, as possible as anything is. . . Frank Selke of the Canadiens says: "It ain't so."

Portland Beavers who haven't any pitchers to give Victoria Athletics, will show what they haven't got when they appear here Aug. 6. . . Gene Thompson was fined for the third time this year by league president Bob Abel at Yakima last week. . . Then there's the report that Roger Leger will be offered more money to coach the Cougars. Naturally Rog is playing that old army game by saying he may turn amateur. . . and that the "Kid line" may be back in Victoria again. . . Soccer fans, who wish, may purchase tickets for Friday night's banquet of the United football team. . . The team deserves support as they finished in the "red" again this year. . . He received a handsome bonus from the Cougars for his work last year and has a $1,000 cheque (Victoria funds) awaiting him at Montreal when and if he signs next year's contract. . . The impression that he hasn't received a square deal is rather hard to take, don't you think.

DENIES RIFT

Stengel Explains Act In Benching DiMaggio

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees today denied that any animosity exists between him and Joe DiMaggio, his slipping outfield star. He berated those "who are trying to embarrass Joe through me."

Rumors of strife between Stengel and DiMaggio began last summer when Casey dropped Joe out of the clean-up spot and attempted to convert the great centerfielder into a first baseman. The rumors were revived over the week end when Stengel removed DiMaggio from the line-up during Saturday's game at Boston.

A reporter went to see DiMaggio in the clubhouse and asked why he was taken out of the line-up.

"Go see the manager," Joe replied. "Maybe he'll tell you."

Stengel explained he removed DiMaggio along with regulars Phil Rizzuto and Jerry Coleman in order to "rest" them for Sunday's game with the Red Sox.

Unfortunately, DiMaggio did not know he had been yanked until after he had trotted out to the outfield. Casey had to dispatch one of his players to inform Joe he was through for the day. Some reporters took Casey to task for "trying to embarrass Joe."

"Me embarrass Joe?" he said incredulously. "Why should I do that to one who has done 20

Jones Surprises In City Net Play

Bert Jones, highly regarded in B.C. badminton circles, but never before a contender for the Victoria tennis championship, today had established himself as a "dark horse" contender for the city's men's singles crown at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

The slim, bespectacled Jones moved into the quarter-final round Monday night with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Howie Tooby.

Jones, who is seeded No. 6, will meet Rex Jackson, Victoria Lawn Club finalist, and seeded No. 1, in one of the quarter-final matches in the upper draw.

UPSET VICTORY

Joining Jones in the quarter-final round Monday night were Jackson, who whipped N. Edmonds, 6-0, 6-4; Carl Brand, who defeated Dick Prael, 6-2, 6-1, and

LARSEN OMITTED FROM U.S. DAVIS CUP TEAM

NEW YORK (UP)—Tennis circles were buzzing today over the omission of U.S. singles champion Art Larsen from the Davis Cup team that will play against Japan at Louisville, Ky., July 21-23.

Picked by the Davis Cup committee were: Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J.—the newly-crowned Wimbledon champion; Herb Flam of Los Angeles; Billy Talbot of New York, and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati.

But there was a ready explanation of the apparent oversight in neglecting to name Larsen, the tow-headed ace from San Leandro, Calif.

A tennis official explained it this way: Savitt and Flam are currently the United States' two "hottest" singles players. Savitt eliminated Larsen in the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon competition, and ousted Flam in the semifinals.

Talbot, 32-year-old veteran of many Davis Cup wars, and Trabert, 20-year-old N.C.A.A. champion from the University of Cincinnati, together hold the U.S. No. 1 ranking as a doubles team.

SEVERSON TOP SCORER

Rocks Face Two Crucial Games

Tonight it will be Vancouver Combines as Victoria Shamrocks fight to hold their Inter-city Lacrosse League lead—a lead that may usher the Rocks right into a Mann Cup berth.

The Rocks, going into tonight's game hold a four-point lead over their nearest adversary, New Westminster Commandos, whom they meet here Wednesday night. Combined with their lead and these two important games, the Rocks are showing a new fighting spirit, the same type of spirit that made them the upstart terrors of the league last year.

To add more fuel to the fires that are being lit by Irish fans, the local club now holds top spot in the individual scoring race and in the goal-keepers' averages.

Whitley Severson scored three points against New Westminster Thursday to finally capture the top spot that has been eluding him. Severson now has 53 points, one better than Alfie Wood of Commandos and two more than fellow-Rock Archie Browning.

The leading goalie throughout most of the season, Bill Andrews, slipped one percentage point but still leads the league with a .74 stopping percentage. Andrews will play tonight's game with his right hand, broken last week, sheathed in a plaster cast.

Scoring statistics follow:

By ART STOTT

Two weeks from next Saturday you'll be able to hear all the piping you want—and maybe a bit more—at Macdonald Park during the Highland Games. From morning until dinner time they'll be skirling away as the transplanted Highlanders show what a sturdy growth they've attained on the Pacific Coast.

But you don't have to wait two and a half weeks to hear piping in a setting that seems fitting. At Cigarmakers' Bay on a fine evening the notes of the pipes come drifting over the still water, drowning the drone of new-hatched flies. It's a little startling to strangers, but we who are used to it find it pleasing now.

IT WASN'T always that way. We used to stand in a body on the foreland closest to Hunter's island and yell in chorus "Can you play 'Over the Hills and Far Away'?" That used to wind up the performance with an agonizing wail. It sounded as if something were dying. We got to thinking maybe it was the spirit of the piper.

Then we learned he was a young fella who, to quote his friends, "was nuts about piping." A lot of people indulge a number of peculiar whims up at Shawigan, and we came to the conclusion if the young fella wanted to pipe, that was his privilege. So we got "Road to the Isles" for a season and a half and now we're moving into new tunes. We no longer urge him to play "Over the Hills and Far Away." It's pretty rough going in the hills behind Shawigan, and anyhow, we have a dog that barks. We're not in a position to complain.

QUITE A FEW Victoria people think pipes played in the Sooke Hills sound fine to anyone standing in Beacon Hill Park. We're not so extreme. We've even rowed to the isle to hear "Road to the Isles" near at hand, but we've never caught the piper. He's as cagey as a frog. He cuts off the melody before you can see him—which may be defense mechanism of a kind.

This year, though, our piper's going to have competition. The youngster who came over from New Westminster for the summer brought his accordion with him. We like that, too. It could be that we're developing musical appreciation, but I don't know. We also like the baying of Chris Behnson's hounds. It's all part of the Cigarmakers' Bay Symphony.

THE GIRLS in the social room have been frightening themselves with the cusses they've been using. "Tain't lady-like and they're taking the cure. Now, when things go wrong and a word they've overheard in the sports department slips between the neatly-applied lipstick, they fine themselves a penny a time. The technique's been in operation a week and they must be making progress. There are only five pennies in the "swear bottle" to date.

When she evolved the system, "Joe" thought she might return in a year or two, take the proceeds and have a trip around the world. Now it looks as if she and "Buster" may be able to buy a cup of coffee apiece come Labor Day, if they're sufficiently provoked during the next few weeks.

It's a wonderful system, this method of tining yourself to cure cussing. Only it always seems to dwindle off and die like a New Year's resolution. It depends, too, on who's using the words. For some people swearing represents poverty of language—as we were taught when we were little. To others it's just a form of picturesque speech. In the occasional instance, it appears to be a form of high art. At other times it's vocal fluff.

A guy shouldn't need a vocabulary of profanity, but when he hits his finger with a hammer, there isn't much relief in murmuring "Oh, pshaw."

THE CROWD at the Oak Bay Boathouse is chuckling. I'm told, about a couple of men who share a boat. Up to a short time ago they weren't too satisfied with the way its engine pushed the craft along. They sought expert advice, and were told to cut down the size of the boat's propeller and alter its pitch.

The suggestion sounded reasonable, so they beached their launch and removed the propeller, taking it down to a machinist to make the necessary adjustments. Then one of them put the screw back on the shaft and the pair of them tried the boat out again. It ran slower than before.

A little disgusted, the other partner hauled the boat out again for further adjustments. When it was clear of the water he looked at the propeller and said short, sharp words to his mate. The propeller was on backwards. They reversed it, and now the boat is as fast as a jack rabbit.

Stately Chestnuts Make Way For Power Lines

Today workmen of the Greater Victoria School Board equipped with power saw, axes and a bulldozer were busy ripping and tugging at the seven stately old chestnut trees bordering on the south side of North Ward School playground. Left to right are seen William Bryson and Charles Hammon dismembering one of the felled giants. Power lines leading into the school are being rerouted. For safety reasons the lines are being strung down the side instead of across the playground.

B.C. Library Techniques Win Praise In Other Canadian Provinces, U.S.

British Columbia is far ahead of the other provinces in at least three new library fields, is the opinion of a Victoria public librarian, Georgina Wilson. Just returned from a three weeks' survey trip in the East, which included top Canadian libraries in Toronto, London and Hamilton, as well as some New York libraries, Miss Wilson found that B.C. was leading in several new experimental fields, and that Eastern libraries were interested in learning about it.

EAST DOES WELL

"For traditional library service, the great libraries of eastern Canada are doing a magnificent job, and often under difficulties of cramped space or budget slashing," the librarian reported. "London's record of service to the public in its new Elsie Perrin Williams memorial building, for instance, is an enviable one, and has been the subject of a National Film Board picture called New Chapters. They have a huge collection of books, films, scores, and records, and a very fine art collection all housed in the same library building. And the library itself is the meeting place for over 1,000 organizations and concerts each year. It's a perfect community centre. Hamilton serving an industrial population of 195,000 with an excellent technical library, and Toronto with its 16 branches, many of them revolutionary in library architecture, are also carrying on first rate service. But B.C. still has several library 'firsts' to match all that."

The Victoria Public Library, for one example, Miss Wilson pointed out, is the only library in Canada to use a photographic machine, the Eastman Recordak, to mark out library books—a process which streamlines library service and insures greater accuracy. Another B.C. library, the Vancouver Public Library, is the first and also the only Canadian library to have a fully-trained newspaper woman on its staff acting as public relations consultant. This has resulted in Vancouver recently winning the American Library Association Public Relations award for libraries in its class, and the Vancouver's Public Relations consultant, Mrs. Elinor Evans, will travel to Chicago in the near future to accept the award.

Two other pieces of B.C. pioneering were mentioned by the librarian: the Provincial library's work under Archivist Willard

Ireland in microfilming old provincial newspapers to preserve records, and the work of the Public Library Commission in rural B.C. which in the last 20 years has pioneered for Canada in many ways in that field.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE

While in the East, Miss Wilson also attended the 6th annual conference of the Canadian Library Association, held in Toronto, June 9-15. Three Victoria delegates, Archivist Willard Ireland, C. K. Morison of the Public Library Commission, and Miss Margaret J. Clay, City Librarian, were prominent at that conference. Miss Clay acting as a member of the Executive Council of the Association, and also as chairman of the Public Relations panel held June 13.

Visiting in New York State after the library conference, Miss Wilson spoke over the Rural Radio Network, last Wednesday from station WHCU, Ithaca. She was interviewed about Canadian Library news by Barbara Hall in the "Country Home" program of the E-M network which is beamed to 13 stations in the New York, Pennsylvania, Ontario area. "And, incidentally, they were very interested in some of our new techniques such as the use of the Recordak photographic machine."

On Lookout For Writers

Chatelaine associate editor Almeda Glassey (left) was met early today by Mrs. Margaret Curtis, Victoria short story writer who has submitted her first effort to Miss Glassey. Little Joanna Curtis looks on with interest.

Coast Complexions Tops?

The women with the most beautiful, fresh and radiant complexions live on the Pacific Coast, according to charming Almeda Glassey, Toronto, associate editor of Chatelaine, who is in Victoria today searching for new writing talent for the Canadian magazine.

The woman editor, who made no claim to being a beauty expert, said she nevertheless had noticed in her travels across Canada that Pacific girls were tops when it came to complexions.

As far as dress and fashion was concerned, she said, Montreal seemed to have the best-dressed and most sophisticated-looking women in Canada.

"But I'm not a fashion expert, either," she added. "I am chiefly interested in discovering new writing talent. And I know there are plenty of people on the west coast who can write."

Miss Glassey believes there is more writing talent in B.C. than anywhere else in Canada.

Brindle Will Retire As Fire Chief

Victoria Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle today declared he expects to retire October 18 at the age of 60.

He revealed he will not ask for an extension to carry on his duties. He has been fire department head for the past four years.

Meanwhile, City Prosecutor Claude Harrison, whose retirement date is set for September 20 when he reaches 65, commented today:

"I haven't given the matter any thought as yet and have not decided on any request for an extension."

The city had been informed of Mr. Harrison's retirement date by the superannuation branch of the B.C. government.

Another retirement which may occur this year is that of Miss Margaret Clay, head city librarian.

Miss Clay's retirement date is set for September 30. Neither she nor members of the library board had any comment to make today, but it was believed in some quarters that Miss Clay may remain for another year.

Summer School Has Art Exhibit

About 50 leading examples of pictures drawn by British Columbia school students during the "Pictures in the Air" radio program of the Department of Education are on display at the teachers' summer school in Victoria High School.

The broadcasts, heard during the school year, described the picture to be drawn, and gave suggestions for starting. Teachers also assisted with pamphlets received prior to each broadcast.

RED CROSS COMES THROUGH

Young Mother Owes Life To Transfusion Service

Because of the Red Cross blood transfusion service a young Victoria mother is alive today and will soon go home from hospital to her husband and two young children.

Behind that simple statement is a tremendously dramatic story of a tense holiday week-end for 25 people, one of them a yachtsman called from his craft as it was being readied for competition in the Pacific International Yacht Association regatta; another, the secretary of the blood transfusion service, making 150 phone calls in a race against time to secure 20 donors of a comparatively rare type of blood.

Twelve Victoria citizens—whose blood type was fortunately on record with the transfusion service—and eight naval men were the donors as a veritable stream of life-giving blood poured into the hospital for the emergency.

From the time the transfusion service received the first call at 11 Saturday night, June 30, until the doctor was able to flash the

Mulliner Likes P.G.E. Service

Pacific Great Eastern Railway is rapidly losing its reputation for inefficiency.

Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, on a holiday trip to the interior last month, expected to gather some lava from Mount Garibaldi for his rock garden during one of the train's usual, unscheduled and impromptu stops.

"It didn't stop either way," Ald. Mulliner said. "I was sure I'd never get the stuff."

Today a sackful of lava was delivered to Ald. Mulliner at the City Hall, a gift from the railroad superintendent in return for the "inconvenience" caused the alderman by the railroad's keeping to schedule.

Delinquents Big Problem To H.I.S.

Possible Concessions Hinted By Inquiry Chairman Smith

What is to be done about "ag'in the government?" British Columbians who have consistently refused or avoided payment of fees to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service?

This is one of the most puzzling questions facing the eight-man legislative committee now investigating the scheme.

While no figures on the actual number of delinquents could be obtained, Committee Chairman Sydney Smith told The Daily Times today arrears average about $100 per person, and that the longer people escaped payment he less likelihood there was of them trying to catch up.

The problem is seen by the committee as one of the most pressing dilemmas faced by the service.

Since delinquents have actually been without benefit of coverage, Mr. Smith thought some concession might be made to persons in arrears, but emphasized that the matter would have to be studied thoroughly before any decision was reached.

He said that the committee had already studied the difficulties of making the service 100 per cent effective. This objective was far from being realized, the chairman stated, despite the compulsory nature of the H.I.S. Act.

Mr. Smith revealed he would be working out an itinerary for his committee upon his return to Vancouver later this week. He said it was his intention that the committee will hold public hearings in all key points in the province and that no districts would be missed. He said even the Peace River district would be visited.

Mr. Smith estimated hearings will take between four and six weeks. Vancouver and Victoria will likely be the last places visited by the committee before it retires to prepare its report for the B.C. Legislature.

CONSCIENCE PAYMENT: $1

A delayed payment of customs charges was received today by the office of G. A. Yardley, Collector of Customs and Excise in Victoria.

In an envelope marked "Customs, Victoria, B.C." was the sum of one dollar. There was no return address and no name.

Saanich May Alter By-Law On Ad Signs

Possibility of altering a tabled Saanich by-law restricting advertising signs, to conform with a provincial by-law governing the same field, was indicated Monday night, following presentation of a brief from the Canadian Manufacturer's Association.

Speaking to Saanich council on behalf of the C.M.A. brief, J. H. Ledger said the proposed by-law might curtail businesses providing employment in the municipality.

The council turned to methods of the board of directors of Jubilee Hospital concerning purchases of supplies and services, and instructed Reeve Joseph Casey, Saanich representative on the board, to ask public tenders for such items be called in future.

The matter of repaving Foul Bay Road, boundary line between Oak Bay and Saanich, was referred to next year's council, after the meeting learned that the municipality's share of the $23,295 project would cost $11,000, with ratepayers paying the balance under local improvement.

Can Fry, Bake, Serve Food In New Aluminum Plates!

By PENNY SAVER

Every fried yourself a plateful of bacon and eggs, country style, that is, then eaten, out of the same plate? You haven't? Well, old-fashioned you!

The new aluminum plates, not to be confused with the uppers or lowers of the dental variety, are designed for a good many practical uses.

A pie can be baked in the silver plates, supper can be dished onto them; whether at home or beach, or they can be means for warming of food.

In a 25-cent package you'll find six of the versatile plates all ready to be used again and again.

While we're close to my favorite subjects, picnics and parties,

ThriftyNifty

HELP—UNWRAP US!

there's another newcomer to the world of party accessories. It's a heavy paper cup made with attached handles. Unless you look closely you might pass up the paper cups as the ordinary type, for the handles are flat to the cup. It's only when taken from their clean cellophane wrappers that the handles on the cups can be opened out like a pair of wings.

No more parboiled fingertips for the picnicers who find themselves with a handful of good eats and a scorching of a cup. For the be-handled beauties in shower or birthday motif, six for 29 cents. The same price is marked on the heavier plain cups in rich tones of gold, green, wine, brown or grey.

There are matching plates, same price again, for either types of cups.

During these warmish days, friend Mabel has complained that she can hear her little size nines barking before she gets through her shopping chores. She says she has a consolation. A nifty pair of terry towel scuffies with the air foam soles.

Figures she never purrs louder than when she slips her toes into her "cushions" as she calls them.

When the slippers become soiled, Mabel dunks them into the washing machine, swishes them about for a time, then hangs them out to dry.

A generous amount of comfort for $1.09, I'd say.

Half snoods, so popular last summer, are back again this year.

More of a satin finish this time, but with former elasticized design and tie ribbons. For a dip in the ocean or sailing about, whether in father's yacht or pappy's gondola, the snoods keep milady's tresses neatly tucked away.

In shades from pink and red to white, blue and lime, 49 to 59 pennies each.

Food for thought—If you place a cake pan on a dampened cloth after taking it from the oven, you'll find the steam will loosen the cake and make it easier to remove from the pan.

Even though most of us have read lots and lots about this subject, unless we remain constantly aware of its importance we fall into careless ways in our homes.

For instance a great proportion of those valuable minerals are lost in cooking vegetables in water. You may miss the calcium, phosphorus, iodine, copper and manganese you need if you use a large amount of water and pour off any which is left.

Here are a few rules to remember in order to build your diet to an all-time high in vital substances!

1. Cook vegetables in as little water as possible. If any is left either drink it or save it for soup or sauces.

2. Season your vegetables immediately after removing them from the pan. In this way you do not lose the vitamins, add in butter or reinforced oleo and you do not add so many calories as you would if you drank the remaining water which has butter in it.

3. Cook your vegetables for as short a time as possible. Most women cook the flavor out of them and lose vitamin content in this way.

4. Cut your raw salads up just before serving.

5. Cut up vegetables just before cooking them. Never let them stand in water. Also put them into boiling water rather than cold water.

6. Cook vegetables in their jackets as often as feasible.

7. Eat as many fruits and vegetables raw as you can.

We need all of the minerals and vitamins we can get for greatest beauty and health. These little leaks count up to a tremendous lack during a year's time.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Vitamins In Diet," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 38 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

MARY HAWORTH

Dissatisfied Girl Quits Responsible Job She Had Five Years

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 24, tall and somewhat overweight—but I am now taking steps to correct this. I am considered fairly attractive by my friends—the few I have. In the past five years I've held a responsible job as inspector in a factory; but recently I quit the job because I was dissatisfied.

Over a period of three years I have been dating one boy, I'll call him Robert, who is just my age. The reason I haven't dated others is, first, because I didn't start dating until late in life—at the age of 20, to be exact. And, second, I don't care to go out with just anybody; I have to like the person in some way. I like Robert well enough, although I don't feel strongly about him; and I write to him regularly since he entered the military service.

Robert says he loves me and his actions seem to prove it; and many of our friends say he means it. And he speaks of the day when we will be married despite my hesitancy; but I'm uncertain about the future. I find myself always hoping for the right man to appear. I have gone dancing and taken night courses of study, without meeting anyone special; and I don't know what to do with myself at present. I've thought of joining the armed forces; but I'd be an old maid, 27, with decreased chances of marrying, by the time I got out. I feel that life is slipping by; and I want to snatch at it and enjoy myself before too late.

I try to keep cheerful, but lately I have blue moods all the time, and the melancholy trend is getting worse. Is this due to my lack of boy friends? The gossip in our neighborhood are always quizzing mother about my matrimonial prospects, which distresses me no end; and although I have a whole summer ahead, I see nothing exciting in prospect. What is my trouble? Does everyone meet the love of his life? I am dissatisfied with everything and everybody, and I can't seem to help myself. Am I perhaps over-sensitive? Can you help me? R. P.

IS DEPENDENCY THWARTING HER?

Dear R. P.: Our experience of life—when it seems to "just happen"—is substantially a reflection of our individual capacity, and degree of preparedness, to participate in living. And it is determined in large part, furthermore, by our opportunities and our ingrained interests. And back of these factors that shape one's history—unless one deliberately invokes a new order of experience in adult years—are those family influences and environmental forces that give one either much of little of "what it takes" to readily lay hold on the good life.

Your enormous sense of frustration, and lack of purpose in speculating about the future, suggest that you are still attached to your mother's apron strings in a stagnant social situation, into which the challenge of creative ideas and stimulating personalities never (or hardly ever) penetrates. Perhaps your mother indirectly wields a tremendous influence over your thoughts and actions, without herself having any clear notion of what she wants of you, or would wish your life to be.

On the romantic front, you've probably been hoping for a dream man to appear and provide a heavenly substitute for the old dependency set-up; and Robert, being merely average 23, couldn't fill the bill, hence doesn't appeal to your childish needs. Anyway, you won't be ready to love realistically until you've understood and relaxed your inner conflict—and you'll need some psychological help with that, so turn to your local family service for guidance in finding a good therapist.

Visiting Author And Editor Here From Banff Convention

Mrs. Isabel Hughes, well-known author of several books and bursar of Canadian Authors' Association, is a visitor in Victoria at present staying at the Empress Hotel. She arrived in the city yesterday following annual meeting of the Canadian Authors' Association held recently at Banff.

Mrs. Hughes is author of the books, "Serpent's Tooth" and "Time and Ambush." Her recent Chatelaine magazine serial "Murder in Muskoka" will come out in pocket edition this winter, and she is now writing a historical novel, the setting in Toronto during 1834-37.

Also in Victoria at present, and staying at the Empress Hotel, is Miss Almada Glassey, associate editor of Chatelaine. Miss Glassey also attended the meeting at Banff.

Christening Of Interest

The great-great niece of the late Mrs. T. W. Patterson, wife of British Columbia's ninth Lieutenant-Governor, was named Tracey Elizabeth at a ceremony Sunday afternoon in Ryerson United Church, Vancouver. She is the six-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor W. Young, Vancouver.

Her hand-made robe had been worn by three generations, her grandmother, her mother and, her two sisters. The hand-knit shawl was made for her eldest sister, Carolyn, now eight years old, by Mrs. Patterson. The two garments were also worn by Barbara Young, aged five.

Grandparents of the baby are Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Johnstone, Powder Point, V.I., and Mr. H. D. Young, New Westminster.

For Miss Yvonna Stoddard

Pre-nuptial parties continue to fill the date book of popular bride-elect Miss Yvonna Stoddard whose marriage to Mr. F. C. French takes place Saturday.

Last evening Mrs. W. Arden and Mrs. M. Mundell, at the home of the former, Gamma Street, honored Miss Stoddard at a surprise miscellaneous shower. The honor guest was presented with many practical gifts and corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. D. L. Stoddard and Mrs. O. French, mothers of the affianced couple also received gardenias en corsage.

Guests were Mesdames F. Sullivan, W. H. Cross, L. Maxwell, W. Rowe, B. Kamis, R. Lewis, D. Graham, F. Banner, M. Newell, D. Ringruet, A. Wilkinson, Misses Terry French and Ruth Banner. A decorated umbrella held many gifts for this week's bride-elect, Miss Yvonna Stoddard, when Mrs. J. Freil and Mrs. D. Munro entertained at a miscellaneous shower in her honor at the home of Mrs. A. Barry, Newport Avenue. Guests were Mesdames G. Askey, K. Steer, M. French, V. Stoddard, K. McShane, Misses Scotty Fairbairn, Joan Morgan, "Happy" Holland, Audrey Patterson, Maureen Little, Terry French, Ruth Bannin, Rae Hammond, Leslie Rimmer, Elaine Maynard, Lois Digby and Beryl Norman.

Miss Eva Clare, Winnipeg, now holidaying in the city for a week, is staying at the Empress Hotel.

Mrs. D. L. Stoddard has arrived from Cardstone, Alta., to be the guest of her daughter, Miss Yvonna Stoddard, 1067 Roslyn Road, whose marriage to Mr. F. C. French takes place Saturday.

Mrs. T. W. McConnell Davis, Monterey Avenue, has her aunt, Miss Mary Henderson, Toronto, as her guest. Miss Henderson plans to be in the city until the end of August when she will visit friends and relatives in Edmonton, Alta., en route home.

Mr. F. W. Hink, United States Consul at Victoria, and Mrs. Hink, entertained at their Upland Road home with a small early-evening reception yesterday to honor Mr. Everett Drumright and Mr. Thomas Hickok, visitors in the city at present from Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Gerald Stevens and her daughter, Carol, are managing Kwal Lake Camp in the heart of the Forbidden Plateau this year. Snow has nearly left the mountain passes on the trail from the Lodge to the plateau, and a few more days of sunshine will warm the lakes for swimming. The heathers are in full bloom.

Bridal Beauty Reflected In Garden Scene

from Toronto for the wedding ceremony in Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Father J. LaSanne united the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. E. F. Jordan, St. Patrick Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pickford, 124 Moss Street. (Photo by Joncas.)

Well-Known CJVI Staff Members Married Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Crawford cut their wedding cake. (Photo by Tommie Walters.)

Beams of the evening sun, streaming softly through diamond-paned windows behind the altar in the Royal Jubilee Hospital chapel, yesterday evening, added charm and dignity to a quiet wedding setting.

Principals were Margaret Gwyneth, daughter of Mrs. L. Gropp, 1180 Yates Street, and James Shearer Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. B. Crawford, 2806 Asquith Street. Both are members of the staff of Island Broadcasting Company (CJVI), the bride, a writer, and her groom, the promotion manager.

Rev. O. L. Jull performed the marriage ceremony. The bride wore a classically tailored suit of fine English flannel in smoke grey tone. Her hat of navy ribbon was shaped like a Mandarin cap. Accessories were navy and she wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. Robert Ostler, bride's attendant, chose a beige wool suit, a brown bonnet-shaped hat with turned-back brim of pique

WOMAN DOES MAN'S WORK

CALGARY (CP) — Mrs. Mary Dover is proof enough for any man that it isn't a "man's world."

During recent years she has been a lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, an alderman on the Calgary city council and a vice-president of the Alberta command of the Canadian Legion ("not the ladies' auxiliary," she is quick to inform you, "but the legion").

Now she is chief warden for Calgary's civil defence program.

Her father, the late A. E. Cross, was a pioneer southern Alberta rancher and her grandfather, Col. J. F. Macleod, was one of the first Mounties in the west and founder of Fort Macleod in 1874.

Witty's Lagoon Garden Scene Of Annual Fete

"Glenduff," the seaside home of Mrs. C. Leeming, Witty's Lagoon Road, Metchosis, will be scene of a garden party, sponsored by St. Mary's, Metchosis Branch, W.A., on Wednesday. Capt. C. Stuart Morgan will open the affair at 3. Lawn games will be in progress during the afternoon and an excellent tea served. Home cooking, plain and fancy needlework, candy, ice cream, superfluities, garden produce and books will be sold.

Princess Chooses Predominating Color For Canadian Tour Wardrobe

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth has chosen green as a main color in her wardrobe for her October visit to Canada.

She has shown a preference for the hue lately, and it will be fashionable in the fall and winter.

But just what will go into the trunk stowed aboard the Empress of France when the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh sail Sept. 25 is being kept secret—usual procedure on Royal trips.

Behind closed doors, Royal couturier Norman Hartnell is working on the first design sketches for Elizabeth's approval.

They have discussed what she will need.

Despite the secrecy, hints of the new outfit have leaked out.

Canada's weather has been considered. There will be lightweight suits and silk dresses for the possible hot Indian summer. Woolens and tweeds—and almost certainly the mink she received from the Canadian Government on her 21st birthday—will protect the Princess against late-autumn frosts. She will also have clothes suitable for the damp west coast.

The wardrobe is likely to include several of the gorgeous crinolines evening gowns for which Hartnell is famous.

These crinolines, draped with the strikingly-colored sashes of the orders of chivalry and worn with diamond tiaras, are favorites both with the 25-year-old Princess and the Queen on formal occasions.

But for the most part, simplicity will be the keynote with travel coats and matching hats predominant. The Princess dislikes ostentation.

Elizabeth has been hat-conscious since she was a school girl, and there will be a wide range of them for the tour. Sunny days will see her in wide-brimmed straws, with head-hugging felts ready for cold winds.

She is expected to have at least one model based on the design of military tricorn which drew admiring glances at this year's trooping-of-the-color ceremony.

Wedding Pair Now On Honeymoon

Traveling through this province and later to Washington and Oregon are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dennis Selby-Hele who repeated nuptial vows before Rev. Moir A. J. Waters in First United Church Saturday. The bride, daughter of Mrs. G. B. Thompson and late Mr. Thompson, is departmental secretary for Premier Byron Johnson at the Parliament Buildings. The groom is the son of late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Selby-Hele. (A Joncas photo.)

Gallant Defensive Action Won Cross For Victorian

Details of the action in the Korean war which resulted in a Military Cross being awarded to Capt. William Desmond Cuthbert Holmes, son of Maj. and Mrs. H. Cuthbert, Holmes of Victoria were made known here today.

The citation which appeared in the London Gazette stated that on April 25, Capt. Holmes and some 30 of his troop were acting as local protection for a troop of "C" Squadron 8th Hussars, which were forming a firm base between the 1st Battalion Royal Northumberland Fusiliers' position and the 29th Brigade group.

Throughout the day, the troop beat off continuous enemy attempts to infiltrate into the position and destroy the tanks, the report said. Capt. Holmes moved between posts, and was always to be found encouraging his men wherever danger threatened with a total disregard for his own safety.

REFUSED TO WITHDRAW

When the tanks were ordered to withdraw, Capt. Holmes refused to leave behind the Bren section of his troops, who could not be found. He went off in search of them and in spite of intense enemy fire, he stood up and waved to them until he attracted their attention and only took cover when they were all in.

He accounted for at least 20 enemy troops with his own rifle, and it was due in large measure to him that the troops held their position throughout the day against heavy opposition, thereby keeping open the brigade's last escape route, the report added.

Japan Holds Key Post In World Affairs

TOKYO (AP)—Where will Japan stand once she regains her independence.

Many U.S. observers have made the easy assumption that the Japanese, having benefitted by the "soft" occupation and millions of U.S. aid dollars, are permanently on the side of the west. Others are convinced Japan has no future unless she plays on the western powers' team.

Statements by occupation leaders, from Gen. Douglas MacArthur down, have given the impression that Japan is a democratic nation and a permanent and trustworthy ally of the west.

But not all Japanese agree that this nation must fall into line as an enemy of the Communist world. Their reasons are varied, but they add up to a potent body of opinion against taking part in any struggle between east and west.

In the early days of the occupation, when it was United States policy to demilitarize Japan and eliminate any chance of her fighting again, the Japanese were told their only hope for security was to remain neutral.

Then American policy changed. It became important that Japan would not be neutral. It was argued that, in an all-out battle with world Communism, the democracies would need Japan's industrial strength and fighting manpower.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Alas, that folks think they must fight. To prove their own opinions right. — Old Mother Nature.

To whom did the blueberries in the Old Pasture belong? There was a difference of opinion in regard to this. Some of the feathered folk considered those berries belonged to them. Some of the folks in fur thought those berries belonged to them. One of these was Buster Bear. Because Buster is one of the biggest and strongest people in the Green Forest, he thinks that all the things he may want he can take by right of might. It's too bad so many people in the Great World think much the way that Buster Bear does.

Every year Buster visits the Old Pasture to have blueberry dinner. But he never feels easy when he is berrying in the Old Pasture because he never feels at home outside the Green Forest. He is always uneasy. But the berries are worth a little uneasiness.

Reddy Fox is another who thinks the berries belong to him. He didn't know that Reddy Fox eats berries? He does. Many people seem to think that Reddy eats nothing but meat of one kind or another, like mice and rabbits and birds. That is their mistake. Reddy eats a lot of other things, including fruit of various kinds.

Farmer Brown's Boy is another who thought those berries in the Old Pasture belonged to him, and his father and mother, because those berries grew on Farmer Brown's land. So it was that when Blacky the Crow began cawing over in the old pasture he at once suspected that someone was up these after berries. He guessed this from the excited way in which Blacky was cawing. So he started for the Old Pasture to find out if someone was after those berries, and who.

Now Buster Bear had been greedily stuffing himself with the berries from the high bushes. He heard Farmer Brown's Boy coming. He didn't wait. He left for the Green Forest and he left in a hurry although he had to go

B.C. Fishermen Lose Good Grounds For Bombing Site

There is considerable speculation and concern among British Columbia fishermen that one of the best-producing salmon grounds may be lost to them.

Since the first of the month, the Department of National Defence has held a closure order on certain waters off Vancouver Island's famous Long Beach. The area has been set aside for use by the R.C.A.F. as a practice bombing area. The present closure holds good until Sunday, July 15.

Local spokesmen for the fishing industry say that although the 15-day closure is of some inconvenience they are not making any formal protest. Repeated closures during the fishing season or any long-term restriction on the fishing ground would be a serious matter, however, they said.

A. E. Carr, manager of the Fishermen's Co-operative Association, pointed out the particular area chosen as a bombing site was one of the main feeding grounds for salmon and was a place where fish could be caught when other grounds were non-productive.

"Most of the fish brought in this spring were caught in that particular area," Mr. Carr said.

Taxpayers Protest Mayor's Project

ALBERNI — Following complaints by 50 rate taxpayers, work conducted by Mayor Ben Wright on Roger Creek, in an area known as Roger Creek Park, was ordered stopped until the situation is clarified.

The mayor heads a new ready-mix concrete concern, which was diverting Roger Creek in order to permit access by truck to the concrete bin. Residents claim the area is a registered park, while the mayor claims it is not and that his company has title to the property.
